ANTI-ALIEN PROPAGANDA GROWING IN SHANGHAI

Mass Meeting Calls for Boycott, Armed Picketing and "Clearing Out of Imperialists."

TO AVENGE
NANKING SHELLING

Bill and Nationalist Soldiers Denounce the Foreigners and Demand
Reprisals.

Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, March 28.—The British embassy was summoned in appropriate today to consider the present situation.

The meeting was called because of the growth of anti-foreign propaganda in Shanghai, the principal port of refuge for foreigners in Mainland China.

Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—The situation in Washington over the Chinese situation was partly settled today by word that another day had passed without a serious break of anti-foreign violence in Shanghai, commanding American forces at Shanghai, related to the Navy Department had returned to shipboard and the force from the cruiser which was rushed ashore today when it was learned that China would make a demarcation to demand return of prisoners in the international settlement.

With its policy of getting things out of the Chinese dangerous, the State Department decided to close the remote wharves at Changsha and Chung when evacuation of Americans at those points has been completed.

Plans No Evacuation of Concession.
Associated Press.
PARIS, March 28.—France intends to defend her concession in Shanghai against any Chinese aggression. It was made clear at the Foreign Office today that there is no thought of evacuating the concession. No secret orders for troops have been given, and arrangements made for the evacuation of French Nationals.

On the other hand, reinforcement have been ordered from Indochina. At present the French have between 2,000 and 3,000 men in the Shanghai concession.

Evacuation of All Foreigners From Yangtze Valley Begun.

SHANGHAI, March 28.—Under protection of American and British war vessels, an almost complete evacuation of the Yangtze valley was undertaken today.

Waterways and landways are used by groups of foreigners and Americans fleeing from Na-king territory to Shanghai.
Evacuation is under official direction and is impelled by a fear of an anti-foreign wave now sweeping the Yangtze valley as a result of the Nanking bombardment to protect the foreigners on the river.

Consul-General Clark, Gauss has asked the Department of State at Washington to send the Home Mission Board to Shanghai to help the refugees and the missionaries.

Emergency Quarters Congested.
Associated Press.
The last 48 hours more than 100 refugees, most of them Chinese, have reached Shanghai and have overcrowded the emergency quarters. Today nearly 150 refugees are expected and will be placed in the Navy Y. M.
C. A. gymnasium, in churches and other places.

The river boats lie fog bound off Shanghai with nearly 500 aboard. Many foreigners from Kiangsu and Chekiang are waiting for the boats to leave the totals.

Refugees who hitherto had been to leave their posts, or have been withdrawn had returned.
They returned with the box, for which he had paid 5 shillings
($1.25). When it was opened, it was found to contain a plug hat
belonging to the British Consul-General Giles, who also had been robbed.

PRICE 2 CENTS

Broke Three Years Ago, Now Worth $1,000,000

Russian Socialist Sells Slot Machine Camera
to New York Syndicate and Pledges Half His Fortune to Charity.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Anol
Joseph, young Russian photographer of Socialistic leanings, arrived in New York three years ago with pockets empty but with an idea for an invention. Today he has $1,000,000 in cash received last Saturday in payment for the invention, which resulted from the idea of Henry Morgenthau, former United States Ambassador to Turkey, is head of a syndicate of about a dozen New York business men, which handed Joseph a check for $1,000,000.

The device that won fortune for Joseph is a half-machine camera, which for 25 cents delivers within eight minutes a strip of eight finished photographs. Five of the machines in six months attracted

280,000 customers to Joseph's studio. Gov. Smith amused himself for an hour posing before it with Senator Wagner. Will Hays, car-of the movies, tried it, too.
Born at Orsk, in Siberia, 22 years ago, Joseph studied at the engineering institute there, and before he was 20 had patented many improvements in photographic processes. The outbreak of the Russian revolution found him with a photographic studio in Prague.
He was interned, but finally escaped into Siberia through Turkey.
After the war he went to China,
Japan and finally came to America.
The stroke of the pen that transformed Joseph within a few seconds from struggling photographer to millionaire did not, however, change his Socialistic convictions.
He plans to use half of the million for charity and part of the other half to assist inventors like himself.

BRITISH TRIBUTE PAID TO AMERICAN SAILORS

Chamberlain Tells Commons
Two U. S. Signalers Saved Foreigners at Nanking.

Associated Press.
LONDON, March 28.—Tribute to the American sailors who signaled the American and British warships to start firing on the Cantonese at Nanking, thus saving the refugees on Socorro Hill, was paid by the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Austen Chamberlain, in the House of Commons today.
(Then were Henry O. Warren, Quartermaster, third class, of Olin,
N. C., and Dennis D. Taylor of Lincoln, Cal., both attached to the Jeferson William B. Preston).

Addressing a hushed house, Chamberlain said: "I have not the least doubt that this timely communication with the warships and their timely action alone saved the lives of the British and Americans who took refuge on the hill."

The Government benches insti-tutedly cheered Chamberlain as he regards the safeguarding of British interests in China and as to whether negotiations with the Chinese aggression were proceeding. He replied: "No negotiations are progressing at present, nor is it possible to negotiate fruitfully in the present anarchical conditions."

Loud cheers greeted his assertion that "the Chinese authorities must preserve order where their authority exists before there is any further surrender of British rights."

Pressed for a declaration of policy on the future of Shanghai, for which members of the House insisted the whole foreign community of Shanghai was waiting, Chamberlain pointed out that the British interests were centered in the international settlement. A policy could be determined only in consultation with the other Powers interested, and it was impossible to negotiate in the present chaotic situation. The international settlement, he said, had an area of 5,584 acres, a total population of 322,531 and an assessed land value
of £42,196,562.

LOOTING CANTONESE SMASH WHITE CHESTS—BEEHIVES

Chinese Soldiers Flee From Missionary's Home in Nanking When Bees Are Released.

SHANGHAI, China, March 28.— Cantonese soldiers looting the home of the American Dr. W. E.
Macklin, of the United Christian Mission Society, at Nanking, found behind the house what appeared to them to be a number of fine white chests, and smashed them open with their rifle butts. They were beehives. The soldiers fled.

Consul's Plug Hat Salvaged for $12,500 From Cantonese Soldiers.

LONDON, March 28.—A Shanghai dispatch from Sir Percival Phillips relates that one Englishwoman who wanted to recover a valuable stolen dressing case after the looting of foreigners' Nanking by Cantonese soldiers, sent her Chinese houseboy to buy it back from the soldiers, who were auctioning their loot in the streets.
He returned with the box, for
which he had paid 5 shillings
($1.25). When it was opened, it was found to contain a plug hat
belonging to the British Consul-General Giles, who also had been robbed.

AUTHOR AND 2 PRODUCERS OF 'THE VIRGIN MAN' JAILED

Sentenced to Serve 10 Days and Fined $250 Each for Immoral Show.

NEW YORK, March 28.—William Francis Dugan, author of "The Virgin Man," and Mack Cogan and Jacob Kromberg, co-producers, were sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse and fined $250
each today for producing an immoral theatrical offering.

The three paid the fine rather than accept the alternative of 30 days more in the workhouse under the sentence meted out by the court. The other defendants in the case, three women and four men, were given suspended sentences.

The author of the play, which was one of three figuring in the recent police clean-up of Broadway, submitted to being finger-printed and prepared to remain in custody unless an immediate stay of sentence was to be granted.

The two co-producers who with Dugan had also been on bail were likewise finger-printed. Although the three paid their fines, which ordinarily is considered equivalent to accepting the sentence, their attorneys said an appeal would be taken.

After reaching Trinidad the aviators intend to return to the mainland for a visit to Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, later flying again to Trinidad.

CUSTOMS RECORD, FORECAST

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Customs receipts for the current fiscal year are expected by the Treasury to eclipse previous records with an estimated collection of approximately $600,000,000. The greatest previous collection, for the year ended June 30, 1926, was $579,- 716,610.

An increase of more than $18,- 000,000 since the beginning of this fiscal year as compared with the same period in the last year was reported, with collections on March 15 being $44,887,000, although collections during January and February were less than during the same months in 1926.

ORRICK'S NAME EXPECTED TO GO BACK TO SENATE

Hope Is to Override Four Republicans' Objections to Confirmation of Police Board Head.

ONLY WAY TO SAVE COMMISSIONER'S JOB

Rejection Has Stirred Up Storm of Protest in St.
Louis and Interest Spreads Through State.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 28.—
The nomination of Allen C. Orrick as a member of the St. Louis Police Board will be resubmitted to the State Senate by Gov. Baker early this week, it is now expected.

This will be done in the belief that Senators from outside St.
Louis, both Republicans and Democrats, are ready to reverse the vote
by which, last Thursday, as a matter of "courtesy" to the four St.
Louis Republican Senators, they rejected Orrick's name.

Confirmation of Orrick as a member of the Police Board would mean his continuance as president of that body, the president being chosen by the Board. He has been president for two years.

City Aroused, Kinney Says.
Senator Michael Kinney of St.
Louis, Democrat, who voted for confirmation of Orrick, returned to Jefferson City this morning. Speaking of the attitude of St. Louis business men and others, he said:
"I never saw such interest, and such indignation, in St. Louis, as there is over this Orrick matter."

I am satisfied that if the Governor resubmits the nomination, Orrick will be confirmed.

Other Senators reported that they had found great interest in their districts in the Orrick case,
and that "the country is stirred up" in an unusual condition in view of the fact that the matter is one primarily of concern to St.
Louis. There were indications of a change in the view of senators, and a disposition to break away from the traditions of "courtesy" which caused the vote taken Thursday.

That vote has been given as 24
to 10, but this was not official, as the matter was handled in executive session. It has been reported that as many as eight Democratic Senators refused to vote.
Brogan, Kinney's Democratic colleague from St. Louis, voted for confirmation. Casey of Kansas City also favored confirmation, but has not appeared whether he voted.

Bates and Others Stand Pat.
If the matter continues to be left to senatorial "courtesy," there is no chance for confirmation of Orrick. This appears from the fact that four St. Louis Republican Senators are still opposed to the appointment. They are William Maffitt Bates, representing the Thirtieth District, in which Orrick lives, and his more active antagonist, Joseph Mosler, Frank
B. Warner and W. F. Depehauer.

For this reason, there is no present prospect of a move to reconsider the vote. A Senator from outside St. Louis would hardly go so far as to make such a motion. But a resubmission of the nomination would present the matter anew,
and would make it easier for Senators to break away from the "courtesy" tradition.

Bates Objects Because He Failed to Get Orrick on Mosaic.
Senator Bates' opposition to Orrick has not been allayed by the attitude of St. Louis business men.
Edward B. Fryer, president of the State National Bank, who headed the group of 20 telegraphing to Gov. Baker in Orrick's behalf, saw Bates Saturday. Several others were present at the conference.

Fryer, telling today of the interview, said that Bates declared he had received a thousand complaints against Orrick's administration of police affairs, but that Bates did not cite any specific complaint, except the one which he (Bates) made, that Orrick could not be seen by persons desiring to talk police business with him.

"I myself couldn't reach the gentleman," Bates said. "I tried to reach him by phone, and his number was not in the book. I tried through the Chief of Police, and couldn't learn where to reach him, but in the Chief's office relayed a message through for me, and sent me the reply, which was that Col.
Orrick would see me at 11 a. m.
Sunday."

"I am in church at 11 a. m.
Sunday," I replied. "I dropped the matter, and did not try further to locate Col. Orrick."

KIDNAPED CHILD RETURNED, $3333 RANSOM IS PAID

Two-Year-Old Daughter of Acting Mayor of Chatta-

Front Porch.

DRUGGED DROWSY,
BUT NOT HARMED

Father Discloses Details of Abductor's Demands and How Money Was Delivered to Negro.

By Associated Press.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 28.—Two-year-old Virginia Josephine, daughter of Acting Mayor and Mrs. Fred B. Frazier, held by kidnappers for four days, was left on the front porch of a minister's home last night, dirty, but apparently unharmed, Frazier had paid a ransom of $3,333.33 earlier in the evening.

A nurse maid who said she answered the door bell, her husband immediately communicated with Mr. and Mrs. Frazier, a doctor and police.

The kidnappers had administered to the child caused drowsiness, but in a few hours the effect had worn off. A doctor said there was nothing to fear.

The Fraziers were out of the city last Wednesday when the baby disappeared. A nurse maid who watched over a 6-year-old son in a room adjoining the baby's sleeping place, discovered the crib empty early Thursday.

Wide Search of No Avail.
Every policeman in the city, private detectives and many citizens began an organized search, but to no avail. Hundreds of stories were investigated while the father and mother waited for some word. Not until the baby was found did the parents obtain the true situation. Some indication was given,
however, for they had requested
police to press for arrests.

Friday afternoon the Fraziers received a special delivery letter.
"We have your baby," it said. "It will take $3,333.33. She is all right, but last night was cold, we don't know what will happen this cold weather. Be ready with the money when we call you. This is not my writing, so you needn't try to trace me."

The anxious parents decided to accept the message in good faith.
Fearing that an effort to apprehend the abductors would result in tragedy, the father and mother waited in his office for the next move. It was soon made. A police sergeant brought a letter delivered to him by a Western Union messenger, who in turn had received it from a Negro boy who would be found at a designated place holding a broomhandle.

"Tell him to give it to Frank. He thinks that's my name," the letter said. "The baby is well and singing and laughing and dancing. Attending to the money. Your baby will be left at the home of a friend."

Frazier rushed to the designated spot after first telephoning his brother, Jim, to get the money.
A young Negro, wearing a handkerchief well over his face, was at the corner when Frazier arrived.
"Are you looking for me?" he asked. "Yes."

"Where's your broomhandle?"
The Negro produced one from behind a fence.

"I didn't get the message until 8 o'clock," Frazier explained. "I have sent for the money and will have it here in 20 minutes."

Thirty minutes later Frazier delivered the money to the Negro with a bundle containing the letters received from the abductors, which had been requested.

In a few minutes the Rev. Mr.
Venable called at the Frazier family home and told the baby had been found.

The city today offered a reward of $500 for the capture, dead or alive, of the kidnappers.

HIRAM JOHNSON NOT TO RUN

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—The distinction of being the only member of the United States Senate who has had the "presidential germ"
and from whom it has been "thoroughly eradicated," was claimed today by Senator Hiram Johnson of California.

He made his claim after a call at the White House and when he was asked whether he would repeat his efforts to get the Republican presidential nomination. The purpose of his call on President Coolidge was to take up routine matters, Senator Johnson said.

PARIS, March 28.—Lucien Mura-tore has no right to the custody of Ariane Rouvier, a Paris court decided today. The tenor in 1924 legally recognized her as his child by Marceline Rouvier, dancer. The Court upheld the contention of the mother of the 18-year-old girl that custody was vested in her. In earlier hearings she has pointed out that when he acknowledged paternity of her daughter, Mura-tore was married to Lina Cava-lieri, a singer.

Having won the suit, the mother expects to go to Rome soon to take charge of Ariane and break off reported arrangements for betrothing her to Mme. Cavalieri's son by a previous marriage.

idge in the creation of a Department of National Conservation.

Dilg formed the league four

DETROIT, March 28.—Aaron Sapiro of Chicago, known internationally as an organizer of farmers' co-operative associations, took the witness stand late today in his $1,- 000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford.

Sapiro identified himself as a citizen of Chicago, born in San Francisco in 1884. His father died when he was 9 years old; he lived in a San Francisco orphan asylum six and one-half years, leaving there in 1906, when he got a scholarship at Hebrew Union College, and later studied at Cincinnati University. He studied law at the University of California law school, being graduated in 1911. While he studied law, he worked as a law clerk and was assistant superintendent of the orphanage which formerly housed him.

Mistrial Denied.
Amendment of Sapiro's declaration had been permitted and a mistrial denied in a ruling this afternoon by Federal Judge Raymond.
The judge also held inadmissible
as evidence Sapiro's letter to Ford demanding a retraction of approximately 141 alleged libelous statements made in articles printed in the Independent.

The court sustained the Ford counsel's objection to the entire 31 typewritten pages of the Ford demand of Sapiro for retraction and certain exhibits attached to it, but ruled that parts of it might be admissible.

Counsel for Sapiro began wad-ling through the long documents and the attached exhibits, with the defense objecting at each step.
That the declaration actually had been received previously was admitted by Ford counsel.

Argument With Jury Out.
The jury was excused at the opening of court and legal arguments were begun.

"If this amended complaint is accepted, we must ask for a mistrial and that the case be taken from further consideration of the jury," asserted Stewart Hanley of Ford counsel.

He maintained that in addition to the alleged libels having been laid before the jury in opening statements and testimony, Sapiro could not prove them to be libels because of "incorrect statements of innuendo and insufficiency of allegations."

COAL MINERS IN SESSION

DISCUSS WALKOUT FRIDAY

Policy Committee Meeting at Indianapolis to Decide Extent of Suspension of Work. By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 28.—Upon the meeting of the Policy Committee of the United Mine Workers today depends the extent of the suspension of operations in the nation's unionized bituminous coal mines April 1. Contracts between the operators and the miners expire next Thursday.

The committee is composed of representatives from each soft coal district and is empowered to call a general walkout or to limit the suspension of work to certain fields. Today's meeting is a re-sumption of a discussion started at Miami, Fla., last month at an unsuccessful contract conference between miners and operators.

Both mine owners and miners have little hope of averting a walkout of the workmen in the central competitive field, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. The mine owners demand a sliding scale based on nonunion competition, while the miners were bound by the Indianapolis convention of January not to accept lower wages.

Mine owners in two isolated districts, one in Pennsylvania and one in Iowa, have agreed to continue the present wage scale until a permanent adjustment is made.

and reparations in connection with the Nanking incident.

Nationalists Threaten to Punish British for Raid on Pirate Lair.

HONGKONG, March 28.—The Nationalist Government at Canton, it is learned here, is threatening measures to deal with "British violence," as a consequence of last week's raid by a British punitive expedition on Chinese villages around Bias Bay, headquarters of one of the world's worst pirate gangs.

The people of Canton are said to be stirring up popular sentiment over the punitive expedition by spreading stories alleging wholesale killing of villagers.

Trustees Had Declared Younger Franzes Had Claims by Accepting Money From Mother.

The children of E. D. Franz, St. Louis grocer, who died in 1885 leaving a $98,000 estate, which since has grown to approximately $5,000,000, retain their potential interest in the estate, Federal Judge Faris decided today. Had the decision been otherwise, the whole estate would have belonged outright to their mother, to dispossess of as she saw fit.

There are now eight living children, two having died in recent years. One died without children and her interest reverted to the estate. The other left two daughters, who inherit her interest. The grandchildren, incidentally, are the only heirs who reside in St. Louis. Mr. Sophie Franz, widow of the grocer, is 86 years old and lives in Pasadena, Cal. Receiving the bulk of the $98,000 estate under her husband's will, she placed it in trust of G. A. Buder, St. Louis attorney, and one of her sons, G. A. Franz of Pasadena, under whose management it has multiplied. The increase had been due largely to the numerous cash and stock dividends of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., in which the elder Franz invested $21,000.

The children, under the father's will, were to inherit the estate upon the death of their mother. In 1924 a son, Ehrhardt W. Franz of Baxter Springs, Kan., brought suit to have himself and his brothers and sisters declared potential heirs of the estate. He alleged the trustees were maintaining the children had waived their claim to the estate, accepting cash settlements.

At trial of the suit last February, Judge Faris, G. A. Franz testified he considered he and the other children had eliminated themselves as potential heirs by accepting money from the mother. Ehrhardt Franz, however, contended the money was gifts and that the provisions of the father's will were still in force. In his opinion, today, Judge Faris agreed with Ehrhardt Franz. He decided that the children are to share the father's estate upon the death of the mother; that all stock dividends received belong to the father's estate; that such stock may have been bought with cash dividends since the father's death belongs to the mother; that a special master should be appointed, if desired, to determine the children's portions; that the trustees should give an accounting to the children, and that the trustees should furnish suitable bonds.

At the same time, Judge Faris held the actions of the trustees in managing the estate have been "very commendable," adding: "The record discloses that not a penny of the estate has been invested, with the possible exception of one, which is as yet undetermined, has failed to add to the estate. The results of the management by the trustees have been amazing. There is no reason to criticize them as to their management, but rather their management deserves the highest praise."

Pointing out the increase in the estate holdings, Judge Faris said there were 4200 shares of Burroughs stock in 1904, as compared with 22,500 shares with a market value of $125 each at the time of the trial, and that last March 1 a stock dividend was declared, making the total holdings 43,359 shares. The estate also has $259,000 cash on hand.

NIGHT CLUB ROBBERS MAKE VICTIMS PARADE 4 HOURS

DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—Two men who held up a night club party yesterday, angered because the customers were slow in giving up their valuables, made everybody in the place form a line and march around the room for more than four hours.

Champion Foot Racers of the Tarahumara Tribe

TAKING part in the athletic carnival of Texas University, three Tarahumara Indian girls from Mexico ran a marathon from Austin to a point 13 miles distant and return. Lola Curare, 14, youngest of the three (extreme left) finished first in 4 hours, 42 minutes. Her sister Juanita, 16 (right), dropped out in sight of the finish. The girl in the center, Juanita Paciente, ran two miles from the tape. Below are Jose Torres and Tomas Zafiro, who ran 8 1/2 miles from San Antonio to Austin in 13 hours, 40 minutes.

PROMISES INVESTIGATION OF PROHIBITION OPPONENTS

House Committee Chairman Says Congress Will Inquire Into Gifts to Association. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 28.—Investigation of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment at the next session of Congress was predicted today by Representative Hudson (Rep.), of Michigan, chairman of the House committee on the alcoholic traffic.

"The Reed Campaign Funds Investigating Committee's latest attack on the Antisaloon League ignores the questionable legality of the gifts made to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment," the Michigan representative added. "It ignores the large sums contributed to it by brewers and others directly interested financially in the return of licensed liquor."

"While Capt. Stayton, of the association, told the Reed Committee that his organization never contributed a cent to any political party, the sworn statements of the organization show nine such contributions in Indiana and more than $27,000 given by his organization to the Massachusetts Democratic Committee."

ACTOR HELD AS BANK ROBBER

By the Associated Press. PERU, Ill., March 28.—Frank Francotte, known on the stage as "the man of mystery," is a prisoner in the La Salle County jail charged with a holdup of the Marcellus Bank, Dec. 9, when $9000 in currency was obtained by a robber attired as a woman.

TWO MEN SLAIN IN APARTMENT IN DETROIT GANG WAR

Sub-Machine-Gun and Pistol Fire Rakes Trio Seeking to Release Kidnaped Acquaintance.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—The first sub-machine-gun fire in the history of Detroit's gang war killed two men and seriously wounded another as they walked down a hall in an apartment building early today. The sub-machine gun was in place behind a steel fire door.

The slain men have been partly identified as George Cohen and Joseph Bloom. The third man, wounded several times, is Frank Wright, alias Burke, 23 years old, of Chicago. In his hotel room were found Chicago newspaper accounts of beer and gambling feuds.

Wright told Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Neudeck he and his companions, Bloom and Cohen, had been summoned to the apartment to obtain the release of an acquaintance named Fish, who had been kidnaped.

"As we were walking down the corridor a steel fire door swung open and three men began shooting at us," said Wright. "The man with the machine gun was in the middle, and on each side of him was a man firing away with a pistol."

In the apartment police found three saved-off shotguns, a rifle and several cartridges. According to the building superintendent the apartment to which the three men had been called was rented by four men, Alie and Simon Asler, brothers, Sam Miller and John Tolzdorf.

Police believe the shooting was an outbreak of a feud between gambling-house proprietors and that gunmen have been imported from New York and Chicago.

Police said they had learned that Fish, who, Wright declared, the three had gone to the apartment to rescue, had been forced to enter an automobile Saturday night and was driven away. No trace has been found of him.

Mme. Kollontay, Soviet Envoy, Writes Novel on Status of Women

"Red Love," Is Name of Book Which Aims to Combat What Author Calls "Old Bourgeois Hypocrisy."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 28.—Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, who as Soviet Minister to Mexico is the only woman diplomat of major grade in the world, will appear before the English-reading public as an author for the first time this week.

"Red Love," which she describes as "a purely psychological study of sex relations in the post-war period" and hopes "will aid in combating the old bourgeois hypocrisy in moral values," will be issued in authorized translation Wednesday by the Seven Arts Publishing Co.

For years Mme. Kollontay has been writing about the modern trend of women. As a communist refugee in Berlin, as Commissar of Public Welfare in the early days of the Russian revolution and as Soviet Minister to Norway, she produced essays and volumes on motherhood versus state, new morals, free love and such topics.

Expurgated in Russia. "Red Love," her only novel, was permitted to circulate in Russia only in expurgated form, according to her American publisher, not because it contained passages likely to injure innocent young minds, but because of its indirect criticism of the new economic policy.

Mme. Kollontay remained loyal to undiluted communism. Her appointment to Norway in 1924 was regarded as a polite form of banishment. The expurgated portions of "Red Love" have been supplied in the English translation through the German edition.

The woman of the younger generation, writes Mme. Kollontay in a foreword to "Red Love," "does what men always have done; she places work and citizen duties first, 'lovingmaking' and family responsibilities second. If the self-supporting girl (we do not even ask nowadays whether she is a miss or a mistress) gets into 'love troubles,' feels unhappy, receives a 'blow' from the man she likes or loves, she does not take poison, neither does she believe herself 'doomed.'"

"She follows the path which the majority of men have always taken: She picks herself up, tries to step over misfortune in love and goes on living, working and struggling until the day when, perhaps, she will find the mate and companion with whom she will be willing to go hand in hand for years."

"This is the general psychology

BOY WHO THINKS HE KILLED FRIEND SOUGHT

For Nearly Year Vernon Smith, 16, Has Been Fugitive From Phantom Murder.

Police of St. Louis and nearby cities have been asked to find Vernon Smith, 16 years old, and tell him he may return to his home town, Winchester, Ky., from which he fled nearly a year ago, in the mistaken belief he had killed a boy and would be prosecuted.

One afternoon last May, Vernon and his chum, Douglas Rye, pretended they were staging a movie thriller. Vernon impersonated an idol, Tom Mix, using his father's revolver. Douglas played the part of a desperado of the wide open spaces. The revolver was accidentally discharged—Douglas fell.

Convinced that he had slain his friend, and was guilty of murder, Vernon fled, and since has been wandering about the country. He was not heard from until last September, when he wrote to a girl friend at Winchester, asking if "all was well." Her letters to him, telling that the Rye boy, though seriously wounded, had recovered, and that forgiveness and welcome awaited the fugitive, came back unclaimed.

A short time ago Vernon, using an assumed name, "Thomas Dunton," wrote his father from East St. Louis, explaining he was living "near there," and wanted to know about "the trouble." The father's reply, care of general delivery, was returned unclaimed.

The boy's stepmother has written to police in St. Louis and other cities, asking for help in finding the boy.

WOMAN CRIMINALLY ASSAULTED IN HOME

Three Young Men, Two of Them Ex-Convicts, Held, Fourth Being Sought.

Mrs. Florence Botce, 22 years old, who lives with her four small children in two shabby rear rooms at 814 A Cass avenue, while her husband, Russell Botce, serves a term in the State penitentiary, was criminally assaulted early yesterday morning after four young men burst through the door of her home.

Police who were called at 1 a. m. found a frail, undernourished, hysterical woman and four weeping children—June, 4 years old; James, 3; Robert, 2; and Agnes, 1—in the bedroom of the flat. The door had been broken in and Mrs. Botce obviously had been beaten and bruised.

The entire family was taken to the women's quarters at Carr Street Station where they remained today. Mrs. Botce named four men, two of them ex-convicts. Three of them were arrested yesterday and the fourth is being sought.

Mrs. Botce related that her husband went to the penitentiary eight months ago after stealing two tires to buy food for his family. He would be back in October, she said, and in the meantime she has been and is trying to feed her family by odd jobs of cleaning and janitor work. At 12:30 a. m. yesterday she was sleeping with the eldest child, June, when she was awakened by pounding on the door. Presently the door burst open and four men entered.

Yesterday in a restaurant at Thirtieth and North Market street detectives arrested Earl Durkin, 20, an ex-convict, and John Kopfstein. The latter announced he was "tired of being arrested," put up a fight and was arrested. Later, Harveyl Lindy, 23, another ex-convict, was arrested.

Mrs. Botce identified the three prisoners and explained that she knew them by sight, having seen them frequently in the neighborhood where she lives. Kopfstein denied any knowledge of the affair, but Durkin and Lindy admitted they were in Mrs. Botce's rooms. They insisted they had made a friendly call and that several other persons whom they did not know were present while they were there.

Physicians at the City Hospital examined the children and pronounced them in good health though undernourished and poorly clothed. Four-year-old June had bruises on the throat which Mrs. Botce said one of the men inflicted in choking her when she screamed. Policemen reported there was no money or food in the apartment.

for Orrick appears in the telephone book. He lives in an apartment house at 320 Union boulevard. His law office telephone, in the Nagel & Kirby suite in the Security building, is listed under Orrick's name, Central 8600.

Bates further told Pryor that he considered Orrick "a fine gentleman" and had no personal objection to him.

It was learned that the three other St. Louis Republican Senators were standing pat in their opposition to Orrick, and this led Pryor to conclude that there was no chance for a reconsideration move, and that resubmission by the Governor was the only chance left.

Some members of the Police Department have not concealed their satisfaction with the Senate's adverse action on Orrick. They complain that transfers in the department have been too frequent. This frequency of transfers was part of a fixed policy with Orrick, who aimed to keep the patrolmen and officers from forming neighborhood acquaintances and connections which might interfere with the proper performance of full police duty.

A number of business and neighborhood improvement organizations are getting behind Pryor's group, in support of Orrick, and are communicating with the Governor and Senators.

Laundrymen for Orrick. C. F. Schaum, president of the Associated Laundry Owners of St. Louis, yesterday sent a telegram to Gov. Baker, endorsing Orrick and expressing the hope that some means could be found to change the Senate's course.

He said, in part: "Col. Orrick is a capable, fearless man, and the ideal St. Louisian to head the Board of Police Commissioners." Schaum's telegram followed resolutions passed by the Associated Laundry Owners, and wired to Senator Warner Wednesday. No answer to the telegram was received.

E. J. Wallace, past president of the South St. Louis Business Men's Association, sent a telegram today to Gov. Baker, saying, "The law-abiding citizens of St. Louis are hopeful that you can find a way to give us the protection in the future that Col. Orrick, as president of the Police Board, has given us for the past two years." It continued: "Lawbreakers, gamblers, bootleggers and dishonest politicians are not in favor of law and order; we are hopeful that you can find a way to overcome this undesirable element."

The South St. Louis Business Men's Association will act as an organization in endorsing Orrick, at its meeting Thursday, according to Charles Spies, president.

The Raw Fur and Wool Dealers' Association of St. Louis today sent this telegram to Gov. Baker: "The Raw Fur and Wool Dealers' Association of St. Louis deeply regrets the failure of the Senate to confirm your reappointment of Col. Orrick. You have made the St. Louis Police Department efficient through your appointment of capable officials, and we believe the services of Col. Orrick cannot be lost at this time. We further believe that many Senators, not familiar with the merits of the case at the time of their refusal to confirm, would now confirm the appointment if given the opportunity to reconsider."

Another telegram was sent to Gov. Baker by William G. Alexander, president of the Mound City Undertakers and Livemen's Association, asking the Governor to seek some method of keeping Orrick. His organization will meet tonight, and Alexander believes it will adopt resolutions endorsing Orrick.

At a meeting today, the Master Cleaners and Dyers' Association of St. Louis passed a resolution authorizing the sending of a telegram to Gov. Baker, advocating resubmission of the appointment. The telegram says in part: "Col. Orrick has fought for the best interests of the City of St. Louis and for its police department." Action in support of Orrick will be taken by the Franklin Avenue Improvement Association at a meeting tonight. Herman Mauch, president, predicted today.

$6450 IN FEES AWARDED IN TWO RECEIVERSHIPS

Allowances Made for Wagner-Grant-Bell Subsidiary Co. and Thomsen F. Pecham Firm.

Fees amounting to $6450 were made today by Circuit Judge Hall to receiver and attorneys in the cases of the Skinner Road Realty Co., subsidiary of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Realty Co., and of Thomas F. Pecham, real estate man missing since last April.

Receivership of the Skinner road concern virtually was closed, with allowances of $1750 to Receiver W. H. Holme, $1250 to his attorney, J. F. Now they've discovered

Cloudy teeth are not naturally "off color"— simply dulled with a dingy FILM that hides them and invites decay
and gum troubles

Now restore your teeth to dazzling whiteness, your gums to healthy firmness this new way that dental authorities urge...
send coupon for 10-day tube.

BELIEVING your teeth are naturally dull is a great mistake. Science has proved otherwise. Permitting your teeth to be other than clear and beautiful is an injustice to yourself.

Largely on dental advice, millions are now multiplying the beauty of their smiles. New methods of tooth cleaning and gum care have been found.

By right, daily care you can work wonders with your teeth. Can give them whiteness and clearness that amaze. But not with ordinary brushing. Just send the coupon and a 10-day supply of the correct way will be sent.

It's film that hides pretty teeth and imperils gums

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on your teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it... a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color" and dingy.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack and your teeth open to decay. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Mere brushing won't do

Ordinary dentifrices and cleaning won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget.

LEGION COMMANDER URGES CIVIC SERVICE

Howard Paul Savage Addresses
300 Former Service Men
at East St. Louis.

Howard Paul Savage, national commander of the American Legion, was the guest of honor and principal speaker yesterday at a meeting of 300 Southern Illinois Legionnaires in East St. Louis, at which Joseph Del'Era, State vice commander, presided.

Savage declared that while the legion is making arrangements for the 39,000 ex-service men expected to attend the next convention in September at Paris, it also is continuing its program of community service, which means that each separate post is to do something constructive for its own community.

"In community service the legion has found the most popular endeavor in its history," he said.
"It is popular within the organization and with the public. It means that 39,000 posts in the United States will do something of lasting benefit to their communities. More than 50,000 Americans will be affected by the legion's activities."

"The particular form of neigh-
with the individual post. My advice to any post is to take on no more than it can handle, but to do every bit that it can. If the project that is chosen requires the co-operation of the entire city to make it a success, go to the clubs, the fraternal organizations and the schools, because the American Legion is a cross-section of civic life."

Savage is a native of Boone, Ia., but entered the army from his home at Chicago and was discharged a Lieutenant of Engineers with a year of overseas service.

NEW $40,000 ORGAN TO BE USED IN NOONDAY LENTEN SERVICES

First of Weekly Recitals at Christ Church Cathedral

Friday.

The new $40,000 organ of Christ Church Cathedral will be used hereafter for the noonday Lenten services being held there. The first of a series of weekly recitals, at 12:30 p.m., will be given Friday.
The organ was used at yesterday's morning service, and a recital was given at night at the four Davis organist, Wagner's "Ride of the Val-kyries" and lighter compositions were used in demonstrating the range of power of the instrument.

In Holy Week, Bach's choral pre-ludes will be played daily, beginning Monday, April 11, as a prelude to the noonday services.
Demolition of Schuyler Memorial House, at the rear of the Cathedral on Locust street, will be begun
after Easter. The Bishop Tuttle Memorial building, containing the Schuyler Auditorium, will be erected in its place. The new building also will occupy the present site of Bollinger Memorial Chapel, which is to be moved forward.

MAIN TELEPHONE EXCHANGE TO BE CHANGED TO CHESTNUT

Company to Substitute the Two-Syllable Name for the Sake of Clarity.

Name of one of the three downtown telephone exchanges will be changed from Main to Chestnut when the next directory is distributed next June. This is for the sake of clarity, as Chestnut is easier to understand.

Two-syllable words are considered best for telephone exchange names. Grand, with which Main often is confused when telephone numbers are spoken indistinctly, will be the only one-syllable exchange left here. Only a few numbers are expected to be changed when the name Chestnut is adopted, and these will be altered only in preparation for use of dial telephones.

NEW FACTORY FOR BELLEVILLE

Company to Operate Tomato Cannery—Crops Fledged.

A tomato canning factory is to be established in Belleville on West Main street, near the Southern Railway crossing, the Chamber of Commerce announced. J. S. Suppleger, in charge of a similar factory in Collinsville, heads the company being organized in Belleville.

Plumbers in the vicinity have pledged to acres for growing tomatoes and seed has been distributed to them. E. A. Dakey of the Chamber of Commerce says that he has information that additional farmers will sign up to grow enough tomatoes to keep the plant busy throughout the season.

Pastor Undecided as to Call.

The Rev. Dr. Charles W. De-gen, of Louisville, Ky., preaching to the congregation of First Presbyterian Church, in the Tivoli Theatre yesterday, said he had not yet decided to accept the call to the pastorate, which was left vacant by the recent resignation of the Rev.
Dr. C. E. Jenney. He promised to announce his decision within a short time. His sermon topic was
"Does It Pay to Believe in God?"

Boy, 17, Confesses Killing

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 28.—A 17-
year-old boy is under arrest as a confessed slayer of Alexander Mon-ski, 31, who was shot when four young hoodlums tried to break into a birthday party where Mon-ski was a guest. The four youths were caught later and police say Stanley Lontka, 17, has confessed being the fatal shot.

UPPER MISSISSIPPI CITIES PREPARING FOR WATER TRADE

Minneapolis Starts Work on $600,000 Terminal to Be Built Near the Falls of St. Anthony.

EXTENSIVE WATERWAY PROJECTS PLANNED

First Tow Expected to Start From St. Louis About May 1—First Boat Is Launched.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 28.—Deep-voiced blasts of Mississippi River steamboats will be part of the commercial life of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Winona, La Crosse and other cities on the Upper Mississippi River this summer, when operation of the Upper Mississippi barge line will bring river navigation back to the stream which played a great part in the opening of the Northwest territory.

The first of a fleet of modern steel towboats, designed to meet hannel conditions of the Upper Mississippi, was launched last week at Dubuque, Ia. Steel barges, being built at Midland, Pa., are being launched and will be towed down the Ohio River to Cairo.

The Upper Mississippi Valley is preparing for the revival of water commerce. Minneapolis has started work on a $600,000 terminal, to be erected about a mile from the Falls of St. Anthony, where some of the world's largest flour mills are situated.

A new roadway to the municipal docks already has been graded, and preparations will go forward this spring for the laying of a spur track of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad to the river terminal. A $50,000 steel wharf barge, to be used for mooring river barges for loading and unloading, is now under construction and will be delivered to the city June 1. A large warehouse will be erected, and a traveling crane, with a 50-foot boom, will be installed to transfer freight direct from the barges to the railroad cars.

$2,500,000 Project. "Eventually the entire river flat district of Minneapolis will be used for river terminal facilities," N. W. Elsborg, city engineer of Minneapolis, said today. "Goods will be shipped here during the summer for distribution throughout the entire year, so a great amount of warehouse and storage space eventually will be needed."

St. Paul has plans under way for industrial and river terminal development that eventually will call for an expenditure of $2,500,000. About 1000 acres of land with river frontage, extending from the business section of St. Paul to South St. Paul, will be the scene of the program sponsored by the business interests of the district in which it will be located. The project calls for the building of a system of locks, wharves and yards for the handling of coal and other bulk freight.

Other Upper Mississippi River cities and towns are preparing to join with the Twin Cities in welcoming the return of waterway transportation. Their water fronts now washed by the greatest spring torrents in years, these points are making plans for levee and terminal facilities.

Plans of Other Cities. At Winona, where 6000 tons of freight was transported by river last year, business interests have requested the City Council to petition the State Legislature for authority to issue bonds for river terminal improvements.

At Hastings, levee space has been set aside, and plans are being made to improve it. Two railroads will have access to the property. Red Wing awaits a Government report as to possibilities and costs of dock facilities, before taking further action, while Lake City, recognizing the importance of river traffic, plans to take steps soon. Wabasha likewise plans to analyze the situation for receiving and shipping river freight in a short time.

Citizens of Stillwater, through their Commercial Club, are looking to the development of the St. Croix River as an important commercial waterway. Engineers are making terminal surveys. The industrial department of the Minnesota State Penitentiary, located at Stillwater, is prepared to use the St. Croix and Mississippi Rivers when barges are placed in operation. The penitentiary uses a large quantity of steel, which is shipped from New Orleans.

The La Crosse Chamber of Commerce is studying the tributary district to determine how large a region may be benefited by the terminal.

Towboats Under Construction. The Upper Mississippi Barge Line Co., of which C. C. Webber, president of the Deere & Webber Co., agricultural implement firm of Minneapolis, is president, is building a fleet of 15 barges and three towboats. The barges are being constructed by the Midland Barge Co., Midland, Pa., and the tow-

No more, no less... but Quaker Oats has the flavor

THE difference in breakfast oats is in their flavor. The price mostly is the same.

Millions demand the Quaker brand because of its tasty, wonderful flavor. For flavor is the important point in food.

Some 50 years were spent perfecting that famous Quaker flavor. Once you taste it, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

Get Quick Quaker (cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes) or Quaker Oats today at your grocer. See how much finer tomorrow's breakfast will be than today's.

It takes but ONE of these Three features to make this the World's Finest Washing Machine

FREE A service representative from the nearest address below will do a laundrying in your home without charge. We urge you to compare the work of this machine with the finest hand laundering you've ever seen, and the speediest machine washing you've ever heard tell of.

Magic! Thousands of delighted women say the new Meadows washes clothes cleaner—faster—than ANY other washer they ever saw!

THREE to seven minutes for a great big oversize tubful of clothes! Only possible because the Meadows tub holds more water than any other washing machine you can buy. Possible because the slippery Bakelite impeller stirs the greatest water motion ever seen in a washing machine. And while it stirs amazing water action, still it protects clothes! No excuse now for risking your clothes in a machine that employs metal parts to stir the clothes. The Bakelite impeller in the Meadows treats them as gently as your own hands. Lingerie, silks, chiffons—they're all secure in the Meadows. The Bakelite impeller, supplied only in the Meadows, is the greatest single improvement in washing machines. It won't wear, rust, corrode or get out of order in 100 years of use!

And the beautiful Udylite steel tub has as fine, smooth, rust-proof a surface as any table silver you ever saw. Here's the tub that's really rust-proof and dent-proof. Phone your dealer without delay.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES DANGER OF PETTING

Dr. P. J. White Stresses Parents' Responsibility to Children in Adolescence.

"Petting often starts as an innocent adventure encouraged by the girl for the sake of popularity, but with unforeseen disastrous consequences," said Dr. Park J. White, instructor in diseases of children at Washington University Medical School, in a lecture on "The Physical Basis of Adolescent Life," at the University Medical School auditorium yesterday afternoon under the Education Committee of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association.

"If parents would cope with this and other phases of adolescence they must begin early to be truthful, frank and sympathetic with their children, giving more interest and attention to athletics and amusement than to reproof and discipline, and, above all, not doing in their roaring forties what they dislike in their 'teen age children,'" said Dr. White.

Prof. John A. McGeachy of the department of psychology, Washington University, in the second lecture of the afternoon, said: "There is an old and still current view that individuals develop mentally by jumps; that at one age a given mental ability appears and at another, another ability. The experimental facts do not bear this out. After the first two or three years the child develops no new abilities. His growth consists in the extension and use of what abilities he already possesses. Thus the storm and stress period of adolescence represents no new period. Orderly association and action and habitual self-control, a worth while task to do, proper alternation of work and rest, normal expression of emotions, normal social relations and a scientific attitude toward life, such as facing reality—knowing oneself—will develop the stress of adolescence into the maturity of a well-balanced individual who can see life clearly."

boats by the Dubuque Boat and Boat Works.

The three towboats will be named the "C. C. Webber," the "S. S. Thorpe" and the "W. W. Morse." Mr. Thorpe, head of a Minneapolis real estate firm, is former president of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Co. and is now a member of the advisory board of the Inland Waterways Corporation, having succeeded H. W. Seaman of Clinton, Ia., as a member of that board. Mr. Morse, president of the Security Warehouse Co., Minneapolis, is now general manager in charge of the Upper Mississippi division of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

The fleet of barges and towboats has been leased by the Minneapolis corporation to the Inland Waterways Corporation, which will operate the service. Major General T. Q. Ashburn, chief of the Inland Waterways Corporation, has taken an active interest in developing transportation on the Upper Mississippi River and has approved the lease and the contracts under which the equipment is being built.

May Increase Fleet.

Congress also has made provision whereby the Inland Waterways Corporation may build or acquire another towboat and 45 additional barges, so that there will be a fleet of four towboats and 60 barges, which will make possible five-day sailings of the fleet between Minneapolis and St. Louis or between Minneapolis and Cairo.

The first of the tow boats are scheduled to be delivered at St. Louis May 1. Shortly after that, according to plans, the first tow of barges will start on the trip to Minneapolis.

The upper channel of the river will be in excellent condition at the time of the opening of river navigation, according to the United States army engineers' office in St. Paul. The government has been at work marking and dredging the course. The building of a $2,000,000 dam below Hastings has been authorized, and construction probably will start sometime this year.

The tow boats are built especially for the upper river traffic. They are the first boats ever built, according to officers of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line Co., that will develop 500 horsepower with a draft of only three and one-half feet of water. They were designed by T. R. Tarn, naval architect of Pittsburgh, and Irving Cox of the firm of Cox & Stevens, New York.

Contact by Radio.

The tow boats will be driven by oil burning steam engines, operating stern paddle wheels.

The barges are all steel, with two decks above the hold. The upper deck can be loaded with rack, a draft of only three and one-half feet of water. They were designed by T. R. Tarn, naval architect of Pittsburgh, and Irving Cox of the firm of Cox & Stevens, New York.

The barge line authorities have made application for combination rail and water rates, and these tariffs are being worked out under the direction of Theodore Brent, traffic manager of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

NEW DISCOVERY REVEALS BALDNESS 91% UNNECESSARY

Disproves the old theory that hair roots die, by proving that they seldom do. Grows new hair in 70% of cases tested—or costs nothing

MODERN science by means of a simple, new discovery, which embodies the introduction of certain mineral and vegetable elements directly upon the follicles, or roots, of the hair, is upsetting former theories on doing some remarkable things these days.

It is now known that, whereas, in the past the average person accepted thinning hair as inevitable, that condition, according to tabulated records recently made, is almost 91% unnecessary. New hair can be grown. Falling hair can be stopped. Semi-baldness can be arrested.

This method was tried out, during the last three years, in something over 200,000 cases, and records of results carefully kept. 70 times in 100, according to these records, results were successful.

Results guaranteed in writing. It is called the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage. You use it at home—a few quick rubs over the scalp night or morning—that is all. It is different from any other home method known. It is protected by U. S. patents. It does what no other method does or has ever done.

That is, it massages tremendously active root-rejuvenating and germ-combating elements DIRECTLY TO THE ROOTS OF THE HAIR. It works on the surface of the scalp, combating infection of the Sebium that causes most falling hair and baldness, and UNDER THE SURFACE which acts to revive dormant hair roots—the roots men of science used to consider beyond recall.

Thus it stops falling hair completely in most cases. It stimulates the roots to grow new hair. It gives new hair. Scores of thousands of recorded results prove its power beyond question.

To avoid skepticism and doubt, the Van Ess treatment is sold under absolute written guarantee. It is warranted to grow new hair in 90 days, no matter what the present condition of your scalp, and to stop falling hair—or it costs you nothing. The dealer from whom you obtain it, supplies the guarantee with the treatment. So you assume no risk trying it.

Where obtainable

This method is now obtainable at all drug stores. Simply ask for Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage. Get the full 90-day treatment with written guarantee to protect you. Or obtain single 30-day bottle to try.

Putting Anti-Saloon League Pressure on President Coolidge

Second Installment of The Inside Story of The League's Super-Government at Washington

In Spite of Secretary Mellon And Gen. Andrews It Has Forced Roy A. Haynes Back Into Power

His Reinstatement Is Its Greatest Triumph Since It Compelled His Original Ap- pointment by Harding in 1921.

THIS is the second installment of an article disclosing from official records, the inside political and financial workings of the Anti-Saloon League. Yesterday's installment dealt with the league's "rear chest," collections for which have been running at the rate of more than $2,000,000 a year since the adoption of prohibition; with the "honorariums" paid to members of Congress for making dry speeches; with the use of subsidized organizations by the league; with the varied and remarkably successful work of Wayne B. Wheeler, its chief lobbyist, and with other manifestations of the super-government set up by the league. The article is based in large part on the disclosures made by the Reed campaign-fund investigating committee of the Senate.

BY CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Running through the minutes of the Anti-Saloon League is the story of its fight to get Roy A. Haynes of Ohio appointed prohibition commissioner in 1921 and to keep him in office. The record shows that the full strength of the league was used to procure the appointment of Haynes, and that on four occasions it successfully intervened to save Haynes when he was on the verge of being dropped. During his term as head of prohibition enforcement, he was in close and sympathetic contact with the league's officials. For all practical purposes, Haynes in office was the league in office.

When Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews was made Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of the dry enforcement machinery, Haynes was allowed to retain the title of prohibition commissioner but with powers reduced to those of a go-between in the relations of the Treasury with extra-governmental dry organizations.

Another significant chapter was added to the story only last week, when Haynes, at the demand of the Anti-Saloon League was lifted out of this comparatively unimportant position and made acting commissioner of prohibition under the plan of reorganization voted in effect by the last Congress. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Assistant Secretary Andrews had favored another man for the position, but with President Coolidge, who before the Anti-Saloon League, peremptory notice had been served on the President that the league wanted Haynes. His success in getting him restored to power makes him one of the most successful achievements since it dictated his original appointment to President Harding.

Wheeler's Story of Fight.
At the meeting of the league's executive committee in Washington, July 14, 1921, four months after the inauguration of Harding, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and legislative superintendent of the league, reported in detail on the effort to put Haynes at the head of the enforcement unit. This, he said, was "the most difficult fight" faced by the league in its fight for the appointment of "satisfactory" officials.

"I had the assurance from the administration," he said, "that no one would be appointed for this position who was not acceptable to us, and I proceeded at every step in the faith that this promise would be kept."

The Ohio factions were struggling to control the appointment. One was for Haynes the other for Newton Fairbanks. The latter also was a dry, but according to Wheeler, was "temperamentally and otherwise unfitted" for the place.

Harding Yielded.
"The fight became so intense," said Wheeler, "that the President for several days would not see even the Senator from Ohio (Wheeler) concerning this matter. There were literally hundreds of people in the city working for the various candidates."

"We had the assurance from the House every few days that Mr. Haynes would be appointed, and I would have another opportunity to be heard as to second choice. Knowing the possibility of having a functional fight in Ohio, we had matters so arranged that the second choice would have been quite as satisfactory, but we never failed to reach it."

"To make the situation more complex, about five days before the appointment was made, an Ohio paper carried Mr. Haynes' picture with the statement that he had been appointed. When his appointment did not immediately follow, it looked as though a new man would be chosen. The next day or six days were anxious ones, but we never lost faith that Mr. Haynes would be appointed, and the announcement of his appointment was received with enthusiasm from the friends of prohibition everywhere."

"I have every reason to believe that he will make a success of this department unless he is hampered by undue influence from his superior officers. We may have some trouble with the Secretary of the Treasury. He, of course, has the final determination in certain matters of policy."

"Friends in Office."
How active was the league during the scramble for office in the early days of the Harding administration may be gathered from the further statement by Wheeler, in the same report, that "we" had appeals to help or protests against more than a thousand applicants for jobs connected with prohibition enforcement.

"Many of the subordinate appointees," he continued, "take it for granted that they must have the endorsement of this office before they can secure a position. If we had the extra help which this committee authorized, but which we were not able to secure because of lack of funds, the work would have been much more successful. As it is, we have never had as many friends in these responsible positions as we now have."

In the history of the republic, it is doubtful whether any outside agency ever had such domination over a department of the Federal Government as that held by the Anti-Saloon League over the enforcement unit, while Haynes was in charge.

Soon after his appointment, Haynes appeared before a meeting of the league's executive committee with his chief assistant, Matthews. Both addressed the meeting, and according to the minutes, were "received with enthusiasm." Haynes eulogized the league as the prime mover in the fight for prohibition, and said with its support he would succeed in his office and without it he would fail.

"He declared," the minutes continue, "that there had been a let-down among church people and among the other forces that had been the helpers of prohibition in the past. He called attention to the danger of a bootleggers' aristocracy, by virtue of the money involved in the business. Hence the greatest and most important phase of our work is not in the past, but in the future."

At a meeting of the executive committee May 17, 1923, Wayne B. Wheeler reported that a break between Haynes and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair, his immediate superior, was inevitable, and suggested that a "strong" letter be written to President Harding. A committee was appointed by the chairman to draft the letter. One of the members of this body was William H. Anderson, then the superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, who was afterward convicted and sent to prison for misuse of league funds. The letter was in the form of a resolution, extolling the character and services of Haynes and calling upon all public officials "to join us in co-operating with him for an honest and efficient administration of the law."

up to that time to repel the enemies of Haynes, but expressed the fear that the next drive against him might succeed.

Keeping Their Man in Office.
"Within the last three years," said Wheeler, "four attempts have been made to oust Commissioner Haynes from his office. In each instance we have been able to learn of it in advance and offset the influence. Another effort will be made in the near future."

Wheeler gave several reasons for his anxiety, among them the following: "Secretary Mellon, Mr. Blair and the Assistant Secretary who supervises customs and prohibition, Judge Moss, have been more or less irritated at times because of the rulings and the aggressive policies of the prohibition unit. They have overruled many of these decisions and policies and occasionally the people have criticized them. They doubtless feel that if Commissioner Haynes were ousted and some one put in his place who would be more pliable, he would deal with those who want more alcohol and whisky more liberally."

League Hires Ex-Commissioner.

There is nothing in the records to show whether or not the league controlled the appointment of John F. Kramer, the first prohibition commissioner. He must have given satisfaction, however, for at the end of his term of office he was employed by the league for a year at $7500 and placed on the lecture platform.

How the Anti-Saloon League kept a constant watch on the White House and immediately exerted its influence on President Coolidge, through his intimate friends, when he became President at the death of Harding, is revealed in a memorandum which Arthur J. Davis, now superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, submitted to the Executive Committee in January, 1924.

This shows that Commissioner Haynes immediately after the death of Harding in August, 1923, telegraphed Davis urging him to come to Washington. At that time, Wayne B. Wheeler was attending the International Congress Against Alcoholism, as chairman of the American delegation. It is a matter of record that the expenses of this delegation, composed entirely of professional prohibition propagandists, were paid from an appropriation by Congress.

Influencing Coolidge.
Davis was appointed as the league's temporary political agent by Wheeler before the delegation sailed. In his report, Davis declared that he had been able immediately to bring into the White House on the President and "to head off one or two important appointments that would not have been acceptable to the league."

The following memorandum, dated Jan. 8, 1924, discloses how he carried out his political work with the aid of Commissioner Haynes: "Before leaving for Europe, Dr. Wheeler called me to Washington for a conference and requested that during his absence I advise with his assistant, Mr. Dunford, concerning any political matters that might arise. Immediately following the death of President Harding, and while starting on a short vacation, I received telegrams from Mr. Dunford and also Mr. Haynes asking that I come at once to Washington. The change in the administration brought with it certain serious problems, and after two or three days in Washington I asked that a general meeting of the national legislative committee be called in that city. In the meantime, I kept closely in touch with Drs. Baker and Russell. Dr. Russell spending part of the time in Washington."

"Heading Off Appointments."
"It seemed vitally important to safeguard the league's interest and the interest of prohibition with the new administration and the national legislative committee requested me to remain on guard in Washington until after Dr. Wheeler's return from Europe."

"Because of my personal acquaintance with and knowledge of Commissioner Haynes, I was able to bring immediately to bear the influence of a number of President Coolidge's intimate friends who are actively interested in the prohibition cause and also was able to head off one or two important appointments that would not have been acceptable to the league."

"During a part of this period Mr. Haynes was absent from Washington on account of illness, but whenever he was present in the city I was in close touch with him and co-operated with him in certain matters of vital importance."

"A full report covering this period was made verbally to Dr. Wheeler on his return, Sept. 7, Dr. Russell also being present."

"Just before Dr. Wheeler's return I was able to send a bulletin to the league men throughout the country assuring them that President Coolidge would at least take as strong a position in favor of prohibition enforcement as did his predecessor, Mr. Harding."

ARTHUR J. DAVIS

"It seemed vitally important to safeguard the league's interest and the interest of prohibition with the new administration, and the national legislative committee requested me to remain on guard in Washington until after Dr. Wheeler's return from Europe."

"Because of my personal acquaintance with and knowledge of Commissioner Haynes, I was able to bring immediately to bear the influence of a number of President Coolidge's intimate friends who are actively interested in the prohibition cause and also was able to head off one or two important appointments that would not have been acceptable to the league."

Anderson, "how embarrassing it would be at this juncture if there should be any publicity, right on the eve of our national convention, right on the eve of the meeting of Congress at which enforcement legislation will be up. You can readily appreciate how this embarrassment would be further increased and the situation complicated in case anything should come out that casts any reflection upon your use of public funds and it should also come out then or at approximately the same time that you have been considering a matter of becoming a public official for the purpose of enforcing the national prohibition law."

Greatly perturbed also was Robert Herod, one of the European officials of the International Congress Against Alcoholism. From Lausanne, Switzerland, he sent to Bishop James Cannon of the Anti-Saloon League a statement of the $10,000 expenditures by Dr. Dinwiddie, including $4248 for a manager of publicity for a meeting which, as Herod said, "has not yet taken place and the possibility of which appeared, as soon as the war began, to be quite problematic."

Herod declared that to "us Europeans" these expenses "more than astonished," and added this warning: "It would be inexpressibly painful for me if I had to play a personal part in this question and to see that I cannot encourage our people in Europe to come to America to attend the congress, with the risk that a newspaper agency may divulge at the strategic moment that the funds appropriated by the United States for the congress have not been correctly spent."

"Error of Judgment."
Called on the carpet, the Rev. Mr. Dinwiddie explained that he had employed a press agent and a stenographer at a time when it seemed that the Congress Against Alcoholism would be held in this country, as planned. He was acting, he said, in his capacity as chairman of a special committee recognized by the State Department as having charge of the preparations for the congress. If he had known that the war was going to continue as it did, he would have cut off the expenses sooner. He was positive that the worst that could be charged against him was an error of judgment, and felt that if he had to face a congressional investigation he would come out with a clean bill of health.

The Executive Committee hushed the affair by ordering that the matter be dropped.

Rockefellers Gave
$177,000 in 7 Years

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE records show John D. Rockefeller Jr. as the heaviest contributor to the New York State branch of the league. From 1917 to 1925, inclusive, he gave $174,166.68, divided by years as follows:

Year.	Amount.
1917	$19,166.63
1918	38,666.66
1919	3,333.34
1920	17,500.00
1921	35,500.00
1922	25,000.00
1925	35,000.00

Total $174,166.68
John D. Rockefeller Sr., contributed $3000 in 1921, making a total for the two Rockefellers of $177,166.68.

Another large donor to the New York League, V. Everit Macy, is credited with a total of $126,500, paid in five installments from 1917 to 1923. Henry W. Putnam gave $56,000 from 1919 to 1922.

money used by Dinwiddie for the work of the league, out of the funds appropriated by Congress, should be refunded by the league to the State Department. A resolution adopted by the committee said that it had heard of the Rev. Mr. Dinwiddie's action "with great concern" and felt that he had made "a serious mistake" for which the league disclaimed all responsibility. The minutes show appropriations of $60,000 by Congress for the fifteenth International Congress Against Alcoholism.

In tomorrow's final installment, further light will be thrown on the propagandist activity of Wayne B. Wheeler and Dr. E. H. Cherrington, head of the league's publicity bureau at Westerville, O., and the story will be told of the league's part in the 1923 campaign and a subsequent "press release," boldly attacking President Coolidge, which failed of approval by one vote in the league's executive committee.

GANG ATTACKS FREE STATE
SOLDIERS; 2 HURT IN FIGHT

Four Men Arrested Afterward When Ammunition Is Found in Their Auto.

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 28.—A gang of 25 gunmen attacked 11 Free State soldiers on the road near Dublin and in the ensuing fight two men were wounded, one on each side. Police later arrested four men in an automobile in the vicinity when ammunition was found in the car.

A series of raids was made on Free State police stations last November, causing the Free State to proclaim a state of national emergency under the public safety bill. Many arrests were made. Police ascribed the raids to Republican extremists.

Declines to Talk "for the Present," but State Department Intimates Mystery May Be Cleared.

Charge Made Communications Purporting to Come From Government Were Forged Is Undisputed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—Varied stories of the contents of the "mystery notes" recently exchanged between the American and Mexican Governments has led the State Department to intimate that a formal statement on the situation might be made soon.

Unusual secrecy has surrounded the exchange and no authoritative explanation has ever been made. Secretary Kellogg declined today to comment "for the present" on a story in the New York Times which said that the American note was sent for the purpose of satisfying President Calles that communications purporting to come from the American Government were forgeries put into his hands by some agency desiring to bring about a break between the United States and Mexico.

The utmost care has been exercised by the State Department to prevent the dissemination of confidential information regarding the nation's foreign affairs. One subordinate official was dropped from the service several weeks ago on suspicion that he might have divulged information. One occasion a special detail of Government detectives was on night duty at the department, for what purpose has not been disclosed. Ambassador Teller is understood to have brought a personal message from President Calles to President Coolidge on his return recently from a hurried visit to Mexico City. The message is said to have been in the nature of an expression of good will, but its bearing on the secret correspondence has not been disclosed.

Secretary Kellogg and Assistant Secretary Olan of the State Department held a long conference today with President Coolidge, but on leaving the White House declined to comment on the subject under discussion.

SOVIET DENIES IT SANCTIONED
BOLSHEVİK PROPAGANDA FILM

Mexico City Police Arrest Several Managers and Forbid Showing of Russian Movies.

MEXICO CITY, March 28.—The Soviet legation has disavowed responsibility for the posters appearing in Mexico City Saturday, announcing an exhibition of Bolshevik propaganda films, with the authorization of the Government. Leon Halkias, first secretary of the legation, called at police headquarters today and in behalf of Mme. Alexandra Kollantay, the Minister, declared that the Soviet legation had not authorized the posters.

Several managers of moving picture theaters have been arrested for questioning. Three theaters were allowed to open, but authorities forbade exhibition of the Russian film.

The owner of the shop where the posters are alleged to have been posted was still in jail today. He says he does not know the names of the parties who ordered the posters.

NORRIS ASSAILS
U. S. SALE OF ARMS TO DIAZ

Nebraska Senator Denounces Coolidge's Abrogation of Anti-Smuggling Treaty With Mexico.

GIVES FREE HAND TO DOHENY AND SINCLAIR

"They Are Now at Liberty to Use Their Millions in Equipping Revolutionists," He Says.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, has put into a formal statement his views on the recent announcement of the abrogation, effective today, of the anti-smuggling treaty with Mexico and the subsequent disclosure that the United States is selling war materials to Diaz, whom the State Department has recognized as President of Nicaragua.

Norris asserts the action of the President and the State Department in these two respects "has lost us the friendship of every nation in this hemisphere south of the Rio Grande."

The sale of munitions of war to Diaz, Norris declares, is "without any legal authority." The text of his statement follows: "The action of the President and the Secretary of State in terminating the treaty with Mexico, and the later announcement that the Government of the United States is selling arms and munitions of war to the pretender, Diaz, in Nicaragua, are shocking to every patriotic citizen of this country. The action in regard to Mexico is notice to those who want to overthrow the Government in Mexico that they will have a free hand in the shipping from our country of revolutionary arms and munitions that may be needed."

"Opens Way to Revolution."
"Doheny and Sinclair are now at liberty to use their millions in equipping the revolutionists against a neighboring, friendly republic. They can supply the money for the purchase of arms and munitions, so that their titles to oil lands in Mexico can be legalized at the point of the bayonet."

"They will soon be able to recoup the money they have expended for the debauchery of our own public officials and when the revolution gets properly on its feet we can expect some American property somewhere in Mexico to be injured and perhaps some American lives put in jeopardy and, following the precedent recently established in Nicaragua, our soldiers will be called upon to protect American property and lives in Mexico, but, in reality, to make good Doheny's and Sinclair's title to oil lands. So that what has already happened in Nicaragua can and will, very likely, happen in Mexico."

"If the President and Secretary, without the consent of Congress can sell guns and munitions of war to be used by Diaz to keep him in power in Nicaragua, there is no reason why they should not sell some of our battleships to Mussolini, there is no reason why they should not put a car on the throne in Russia and sell him, on time, upon his promissory note, the cannons and the guns now belonging to our Government."

Denies Legality of Move.
"Under this policy, there is no reason why our Government could not dispose of every battleship, every cruiser, every submarine, every flying machine and every gun and cannon that we own. This is putting 'more business in Government' with a vengeance. It is going into the manufacturing business and the sale of governmental property without limit and, it might be well added, without any legal authority. If there is anything in the trend of modern days toward socialism, it is taking the whole socialistic doctrine at one jump."

"The action of the President and the Secretary of State in regard to Nicaragua and Mexico, has lost us the friendship of every nation in this hemisphere south of the Rio Grande. Every republic south of us is wondering what Government we shall next take under our wing."

Living Water

SELECTED LYRICS OF AMELIA JOSEPHINE BURR. (Doran.)

DURING the past 15 years there has been a great deal of acrimonious argument concerning the function of form. For a longer time there has been a great deal of acrimonious argument concerning religious theory and form. To some it seems fairly clear that all such contentions are based upon some misunderstanding of the function of form.

Just as, in its essence, religion is an intimate personal experience of a person's relation to the universe, so, in its essence, poetry is an intimate personal experience of a person's relation to the universe.

In each case it is the vision that matters, and the vision is not of the senses. But since the structure of our common world is built of such stuff as the senses may know, it is not strange that we should so often set the visible form above that for which the form is only a medium.

Famishing men dip up the living waters with cups and cans and goblets of varying designs and materials, and most of them forget to drink while they run about wrangling bitterly over the relative merits of their utensils.

There is no good reason why a thirsty man should not drink from a finely jeweled goblet; there may be good reasons why he should, if he desires and can, for esthetics may be more than a dilettant whim.

There is no reason why another should not drink from a gourd, and those who, having no cup at all, yet find the living spring with their lips, are surely not to be condemned.

The important question to be asked of those who hawk their brand-new cups about the literary world is this: Do they, by chance, hold any living water? Some undoubtedly do. But the important question has been overlooked.

Meanwhile there have been those who, in spite of all the confusing clamor, that the business of a poet, if he may be said to have any, is to see at least a little more than naked eyes have seen and to say what he has seen so that others may see, too. And that is to bear the living water.

These oblique remarks would serve to introduce the work of any one of at least a dozen honest writers of our day, both men and women. Amelia Josephine Burr is such a writer.

Speaking of slogans, "You can do it better with gas" seems an appropriate one for the modern college student.

The Cardinal machine needs a Rhem. Russia is now in a position to manufacture her own arms. Red armies, however, will continue to be manufactured in the United States.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN. NORTH, SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA. By Hyatt Verrill. (Appleton.)

Mr. Verrill, who for years has done research work throughout the Western Hemisphere for the Museum of the American Indian, undertakes in this massive volume to correct errors in the popular conception of the American aborigines. It is a big task, for from Cooper onward it is true that the Indian has been misrepresented generally. Either he was a painted white man with feathers, as in Cooper, or a bloodthirsty brute, as in the lurid thrillers, or a milkop, as in Longfellow, or an interesting subject for dilettant enthusiasts.

The only way to understand a race is to get inside the racial consciousness through intimate and sympathetic contact. In his farther reaches that is a matter for the art-prophet. Mr. Verrill's interest is fundamentally scientific. He deals sympathetically with the exterior facts about the various Indian races and he speaks with authority. His chapters on the origin of the Indians are especially thought-provoking. He is inclined to discredit the theory of migration from Asia, giving excellent reasons for assuming that the Indian tribes are indigenous to the Western Hemisphere and that they have been more or less influenced by ancient contacts with Asiatic, Malaysian and even European peoples.

The book is decidedly worth reading, not only for the information it contains, but for the broad human sympathy that is to be felt in it and for its thought-stimulating qualities.

The Week's New Films

By NIE

THERE is no very special reason why a drama of Francois Villon should be built upon the idea that he was once King of France for a day. True, the beautiful and entertaining stage romance, "If I Were King," has been moving for years and as her belated lyrics show, there is no indication that she has ever mistaken form for substance, and she gives for no "original" effects.

Bying seen, she sings quite simply in the measure that she knows and she has mastered them that understand, has brought a glass tank of water, a couple of other diving girls and an announcer along with her on a tour of personal appearances, and she shows the strokes she used on her trip from France to England and then does a water under just by way of good measure. Also she makes a little speech, but this should not be allowed to prejudice any one against her ability as a swimmer.

In keeping with the ocean atmosphere on the stage, the Ambassador's picture is "The Sea Tiger." We are not sure whether Milton Sills or Mary Astor is the tiger. They are both pretty well, but they manage to tame each other down at the altar at the finish while the band plays in a Latin style. Town—for the action takes place in the Canary Islands.

From the Sea to the Jungle. If you do not care for sea tigers and all that sort of thing you can take a trip to Africa by going to the Grand Central, where Ben Burbridge's amazing pictures of a gorilla hunt in the country of the vicious Batwa tribe of African dwarfs are being shown. These are about the finest wild animal hunt pictures ever thrown upon the screen and there is never a moment when they lack interest and thrills. On the same bill Rint-Tin-Tin is in a picture called "The Hills of Kentucky." The dog star registers every emotion, from sorrow to anger, a whole lot better than most of the two-fotted actors do, and his film makes pleasing entertainment.

The Little Colonel Series. HENRY B. WALTHAL, Colonel of the regiment and known to every date and fig man in the Sahara as "The Master of Guns," would have held the town of Kereb if the Governor of Tripoli hadn't been too absorbed in stealing his stenographer's garter to send relief troops. For this oversight Walthal chokes the Governor to death and then commits suicide, thus clearing the way for Jetta Goudal to marry Victor Varcaul, a captain. It is a sad, sweet ending of this latest of the little colonel series. Jetta remains beautiful through it all and not once during impassioned desert love scenes with the handsome Captain does the cold cream on her face show any tendency to run.

The picture was made by a director fond of putting grist mills and things in people's heads to indicate subtly that they are bewildered.

Connie Goes Swimming. N "Venus of Venice"—Italy, not Ohio—at the Missouri, Connie Talmadge is a good girl who just will steal. Gentlemen, with a leaning to blondes, who try to reform her lose their wallets and their watches. Even Tony Moreno, who happened along in a moment when Connie was swimming home from a little boating party—for you see they can't get out and walk in Venice—was no exception, and it took him the better part of six reels to convince her that if she would marry him she would never have to steal again. It's a fine little picture even if the story gets very thin and unbelievable at times, and Connie and Tony are charming.

And So Does Trudy. If it be Miss Talmadge is the Ambassador has a real one this week in Gertrude Ederle. Truly, the first woman to swim the English Channel, and the only one to do it in a black bathing suit, we

JOLSON PACKS 'EM IN WITH HIS "BIG BOY"

Comedian Scores Great Hit With His Kentucky Derby Show.

AL JOLSON'S one-man show came to town last night. Jolson is the man and for three hours he kept the largest crowd the Shubert-Rialto theater has ever had within its doors in a roar of laughter. Now and then the plot of the piece—it's called "Big Boy"—wandered on the stage but as soon as the star could change his clothes and attempt to the footlights the story stopped and the story telling began again.

Jolson, who a year ago, was reported to be in such bad health that he might never act again, showed no trace of his illness last night. He kept the largest crowd the Shubert-Rialto theater has ever had within its doors in a roar of laughter. Now and then the plot of the piece—it's called "Big Boy"—wandered on the stage but as soon as the star could change his clothes and attempt to the footlights the story stopped and the story telling began again.

The thread of a story woven around the star concerns Kentucky and the winning of the Derby despite the plotting of a gang of spirits who attempt to fix the race. Jolson is a colored stable boy and jockey who rides the winner and saves the Old Kentucky Home. The race itself is one of the most effective mechanical devices the stage has ever seen and makes the plot seem to fix the race. Jolson, who a year ago, was reported to be in such bad health that he might never act again, showed no trace of his illness last night. He kept the largest crowd the Shubert-Rialto theater has ever had within its doors in a roar of laughter. Now and then the plot of the piece—it's called "Big Boy"—wandered on the stage but as soon as the star could change his clothes and attempt to the footlights the story stopped and the story telling began again.

ELIZABETH LUYTIES TO WED P. D. MOSER

Announcement of Betrothal at Informal Tea; Marriage Set for June 25.

THE engagement of Miss Elizabeth Luyties, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic August Luyties of Brentwood, and Paul D. Moser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Moser of Stamford, Conn., was announced yesterday afternoon at an informal tea given at the Luyties home. The guests were 50 members of Miss Luyties' contemporary debutante circle, and the young married set. The decorations were dozens of baskets of roses and spring flowers sent by friends.

The wedding will take place the evening of Saturday, June 25, in the lovely grounds of the Luyties home if the weather permits, and will be one of the most fashionable of the year. Miss Luyties has unusual charm and since her debut has been one of the most popular young women in society. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Ely's School in Greenwich, Conn. She came out several seasons ago at a ball given at the St. Louis Club, and with her family has spent part of her time for several years traveling in Europe. She is a member of the Imperial and the Junior League. Her brothers are William Harrison Luyties, who married Miss Louise Bemis two years ago, and Frederic August Jr.

Mr. Moser came to St. Louis two years ago from the East. He is a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1922 and is a member of the University Club. His parents and two brothers, Mr. Colman Moser and Mr. Karl Moser, will come to St. Louis for the wedding.

Miss Elizabeth Stix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Stix of 6470 Forsythe boulevard, has arrived from Bryn Mawr College to pass the spring vacation with her parents. Miss Stix was accompanied by a classmate, Miss Constance Hand, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Learned Hand of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Keiser of 44 Portland place returned Saturday from a visit in New York.

Miss Dorothy C. Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther T. Ward of 6621 University Drive, became the bride of George A. Caine, 280 Skinner road, at 3:30 o'clock this morning at the parsonage of the Third Baptist Church, the Rev. Henry A. Porter, officiating. Miss Ward was attended by Miss Opal Sweezer and John A. Wynn was best man for Mr. Caine.

The bride was married in a gown of dark brown georgette and her flowers were pink roses and lilies of the valley worn in a corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Caine and his bride departed for a motor trip to Chicago. Upon their return they will make their home at 6641 San Bonita avenue.

FLOWER SHOW TO BE HELD EACH SPRING

Success of Shaw's Garden Display Brings Re-establishment
—12,121 Attended Yesterday.

Re-establishment, after 10 years of the St. Louis spring flower show as an annual affair was announced today, following a successful showing at Shaw's Garden signalled by a closing-day attendance yesterday
of 12,121.

Revival of the fall show, abandoned since 1924, when 45,000 attended, also is contemplated. Director Moore of Shaw's Garden contributed earnestly to the revival of interest in the once firmly established events, offering the flower house at the garden for the display, installing a new lighting system and, contrary to long-standing custom, keeping the gates open until 10 p. m. on each of the four days.

A $250 cup was offered as sweepstakes for the garden for the best florists' showing in all competitions won by Joseph Wittek, who won another cup for the finest booth display and many first prizes.
To foster the annual affair the sweepstakes cup was offered permanently if won three years by the same florist. Other cups were won by the Bourdett Floral Co., W. H.
Krusse, W. A. Rowe, F. C. Weber, Edi Bors, and the St. Louis Rose Co.

Special interest yesterday was in the timely competition of shoulder bouquets. The winner was one of gardenias and lilies of the valley. "Winter Beauty" carnations, a St. Louis product exclusively, won another blue ribbon. An hour glass entirely of sweet peas was a prize winner and the winning "novelty"
was a modishly attired statuette carrying a tasteful bouquet.

CAMPAIN OF CITIZEN'S SCHOOL BOARD TO INCLUDE ENTIRE CITY

Speakers' Committee to Aid Four Candidates Indorsed for April Election.

The campaign of the Citizens'
School Board Committee in support of the four candidates it has indorsed for election to the Board of Education, April 5, will be carried into all the wards and precincts, under the Organization Committee, of which John Nies of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is chairman. Some individual or affiliated organization will have charge of the work in each ward.

A speakers' committee, headed by Arthur B. Birge, chairman, will arrange for campaign addresses before luncheon, clubs, churches and other organizations. An address to the public, in support of the four candidates, will be adopted by the Executive Committee, meeting at the Chamber of Commerce at 4 p.
m. tomorrow.

NORRIS ASSAILS U. S. SALE OF ARMS TO DIAZ

Mexico, Central and South America, instead of regarding us as a friend, will look upon us with suspicion, doubt and fear. In addition, our manufacturing and business interests, our commerce with every country south of us in this hemisphere, will be injured. We are driving all these people, who ought to be our friends, away from us and we are not only losing their friendship and their confidence, but we will lose their business as well.

Our course logically drives them
to our commercial competitors across the sea. Already there are indications in many of these countries that nothing manufactured in the United States will be bought that can be purchased elsewhere.
Our course is not only injuring our national honor, but it is detrimental to our business and our commerce.

"It is no answer to say that the embargo against the shipment of arms into Mexico will stand. The next step will be to lift this embargo, but even if that is not done
it will not be enforced because it would be perfectly foolish to terminate this treaty if it was intended that the embargo should be enforced.

"One of the things accomplished
by the treaty, which has been terminated, is to prevent the shipment from Mexico into the United States of intoxicating liquors and, if it is said that the termination of the treaty will not affect the embargo,
then it follows that the only object of such termination is to give bootleggers a free hand to ship into this country from Mexico."

FIND SLAIN GIRL'S TROUSSEAU
By the Associated Press.
PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis.,
March 28.—A cardboard box containing girl's clothing was found yesterday near the shallow grave from which the body of Clara Olson, who had been murdered, was recovered three months ago. County officers think the box containing Clara's trousseau, in which she expected to be married to Erdman Olson, college student and son of a neighboring tobacco planter, who has been hanged in vain since the finding of the body.

In the box were a tan Georgette slip, a yellow dress with black collar, and two pairs of silk hose, polka dots and black lace at the one black, the other gray.

BUY A ZENITH Electric Washer

For Your Home and Save Your Clothes

A fastidious woman loathes to have her dainty garments sent to the Public Laundry. She usually saves out the finest pieces and does them
by hand at home.

The ZENITH washes ALL the clothes from the sheerest curtains and lingerie to the heavy bath rugs and quilts.

Fortunate is the woman who owns a ZENITH. It is restful to use. The washing hour passes pleasantly, without fatigue.
All the dirt is removed, there is no rubbing. The motor and mechanical improvements will appeal to the "man of the house." There is no vibration. It will last a lifetime.

ABYSSINIA ASKS U. S. TO AID IT IN ENDING SLAVERY

Regent Tafari Mekonen Proposes to Stamp Out Ancient Evil in Its Last Stronghold.

SEES DANGERS OF SUDDEN FREEDOM Suggests Establishing Industries to Hire Serfs, Letting Them Buy Their Own Freedom.

By JACK BAUM.
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Feb. 7.—For perhaps the last time in the history of the world Americans and Europeans have been invited to take a leading part in the actual liberation of slaves.

Tafari Mekonen, regent of the empire and heir to the throne of Ethiopia (Abyssinia) made this request in the following unmistakable language:

"To enable the Government of Abyssinia to realize its greatest hope—the complete suppression of slavery in the empire—Americans and Europeans are invited to take an active part in the development of the country and to aid in the liberation of slaves by their employment as workmen. Seriously intended and responsible parties will be granted all the facilities and favors necessary to insure the financial success of their enterprise."

To those familiar with the history of Abyssinia this new policy is probably the greatest forward step made by the ancient empire of the Queen of Sheba since the days of the great Menelik. That it is based upon sound logic is evident from the clear-cut and plain wording of the pronouncement:

Letting Slaves Buy Freedom.

"The Abyssinian Government, in its determination to abolish slavery, some years ago made it a capital offense to buy, sell or traffic in slaves. The humanity and wisdom of this law having been proved through a period of years, the Government of Abyssinia has decided to go farther; it has worked out the general outline of a plan for allowing those born in slavery to obtain the status of freemen, if they so desire, by their own efforts."

The plan will be put into execution as soon as the details have been settled and agreed upon by the various branches of the Government and the Governors of provinces. It will be in the nature of the following:

"Foreign capital will be invited to lease tracts of land for the cultivation of coffee, rubber, fruit and other products and for the raising of cattle, sheep and horses. Such enterprises will be furnished slave labor and will be obligated to remit one-half the laborer's wage to his owner, the other half to be held by the Government until such time as his accumulated earnings will suffice to purchase his freedom, which, according to estimates so far obtainable, will be approximately five years."

Danger of Sudden Emancipation.
"But the immediate wholesale liberation of all slaves, the sudden breaking of a custom as ancient as Africa itself, as advocated by well-intentioned people in Europe and America, would surely produce a drastic situation in which multitudes of people without a profession and with no means of support would be thrown upon the highways. Being without a means of existence, they would soon become criminals. And in this situation the greatest help which America and Europe can give to Abyssinia in its present state of evolution is work. Hands are not wanting. The Abyssinian Government is ready and eager to favor foreign capital which can develop the country and aid in the actual liberation of slaves by employing them as workmen in their development projects."

"His Imperial highness, Tafari Mekonen, will grant to such seriously intended and responsible parties all the facilities and favors necessary to insure the financial success of their work, which will enable the regent of Abyssinia to realize the aim which he has so much at heart, the complete suppression of slavery in Abyssinia."

"Slavery is as old as Africa." To understand the far-reaching and revolutionary character of this pronouncement it is only necessary to remember, as Ras Tafari says, "that slavery is as old as Africa itself." The strength of the Abyssinian Government and its standing with its own subjects is proved by its ability to undertake so great a reform. The Governors of provinces and the large land owners, own hundreds, sometimes thousands, of slaves. Tafari Mekonen and his Government have been able with conservative and quiet diplomacy at home, to gain the consent and support of even the powerful reactionary group—the party which, up to the present time, would not allow an airplane to fly over the country.

That slavery in Abyssinia is of a benign character is not understood and cannot be understood except by those familiar with its workings here. The easy-going, careless nature, the simple scale of living, the lack of desire for the things that money can buy which are marked characteristics of the average Abyssinian slave owner is so much the reverse of modern that it is extremely difficult to believe. A ras with hundreds of slaves.

Prize of $1000 Goes to Miss Katherine Bregy for Essay on Poet's Vision.

The $1000 Dante Prize, donated by John S. Leahy, St. Louis attorney, has been awarded to Miss Katherine Bregy of Philadelphia, through The Commonwealth, Catholic publication of New York. The winning essay, "Dante and His Vision of Life," is contained in the March 30 issue.

More than 300 essays were received from all parts of the world. The jury which passed on them comprised 10 educators, editors and lecturers, among them the Rev. M. I. Stritch, S. J., of St. Louis University.

TAME WILD GOOSE KILLED IN COLLISION WITH AUTO

Death Discloses Jim as Much Misunderstood Bird; He Was Going to Lay Egg.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 28.—Jim Clarke, a wild goose, is dead, having collided in full flight with an automobile. W. L. Smith, a farmer, who brought the goose down with a broken wing two years ago and made a pet of it, soled himself by making a meal of it. This disclosure that Jim had been misnamed and long misunderstood. He soon would have laid an egg.

Smith easily domesticated the wounded bird and it had long been a neighborhood pet. It followed the farmer around, answered his call and was in the habit of flying over the family car when Smith drove. It was the trick that cost Jim his life. Hurling around a sharp curve, flying low, the bird crashed through the windshield of a laundry truck, stunning the driver and breaking his own neck.

Last summer a flock of wild geese flew over the Smith home, spotted Jim in the barnyard and honked invitingly. Jim answered, but refused to join them.

Funeral of Good-Will Flyer.
By The Associated Press.
NORTHERN, Mich., March 28.—Funeral services were held yesterday for Capt. Clinton F. Woolsey, United States good-will flyer, killed in an airplane accident in South America. Lieut. Carl F. Green and Robert G. Brown, flew from Dayton, O., to take part in the services, but were forced down by a snowstorm 15 miles south of here. They were brought overland to this village.

Does not utilize this labor to any extent in the cultivation of his land. He raises enough to feed himself, his retainers and his slaves and that is all. The work done is almost negligible. The result is the slaves are more of a burden than a source of income. It is largely due to this peculiar fact that Ras Tafari has been able to gain the support of the slave-holders in his effort to banish slavery from his empire.

To those familiar with Abyssinian conditions it is apparent that great numbers will prefer to remain in their present state of mild bondage rather than to assume the responsibilities of supporting themselves. It was doubtless with this in mind that Tafari Makonnen in his pronouncement inserted the phrase "if they so desire" when stating his policy of allowing those born in slavery to attain the status of freemen.

Ras Tafari is a close student of history. He is familiar with the conditions in the United States after the Civil War when slaves were thrown upon the community and while he is determined to free all slaves eventually he is equally determined to profit by American experience and avoid plunging his country into the deplorable state of disorder that afflicted the South after the war. In the opinion of close observers in the capital he has hit upon a plan that will accomplish his humanitarian purpose with the least possible friction; a plan, the best for Abyssinia, for the slaves and for the slave owners.

ALDERMEN WILL SOUND OBJECTORS TO TRANSIT BILL

Wimer's Committee Invites Protesters to Appear and Explain Why They Oppose Measure.

MOSTLY DOWNTOWN PROPERTY OWNERS

Fight to Kill Crippling Amendments Probably Will Be Made on Senate Floor This Week.

Twelve property owners opposing the rapid transit enabling act now before the Legislature have been asked to appear before the special aldermanic committee on rapid transit at 2 p. m. tomorrow to state their objections.

Letters have been written to all who protested against the bill to the Senate Committee considering
it. The protesters are chiefly downtown property owners.

Chairman Wimer of the Aldermanic Committee said that the committee believed much of the opposition was due to a misunderstanding of the terms of the act.
At least, he said, the Aldermanic Committee wants to know exactly why property owners should be opposed to rapid transit.

As has been told, the enabling act in the Legislature was reported to the Senate Friday with amendments that make it the establishment of rapid transit even more difficult than under present laws.
The purpose of the act was to make rapid transit easier by empowering the city to assess some proportion of the cost against benefitted property. The city administration suggested that 75 per cent
should be paid by property owners and 25 per cent by the car riders.
This would have tended toward low fares for rapid transit. The Senate Committee changed the percentage to 40 per cent against property, leaving car riders to carry 60 per cent of the burden. The measure also was amended to require a two-thirds vote of citizens on any rapid transit plan. The city now is authorized to issue bonds for subways on a four-sev-enths vote.

The Senate probably will vote on the measure this week. An effort will be made to kill the amendments on the floor and pass the act
in the same form in which it passed the House.

Mayor Miller and President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service noted that the emancipation of the rapid transit enabling act also affected the power of the city to carry through the proposed Third street double-track highway and the improvement of the river front.

The act included "highways" in its passages granting the city power to pay for improvements by assessment of benefited property. If only 40 per cent of the cost of the proposed highway could be assessed against benefited property, it likely would fail at the polls because of the unwillingness of voters at large to assume the bulk of the cost.

SCIENTIFIC PROBLEMS TO BE TOPIC AT RESEARCH MEETING
William Blum Tells of Advantages of Chromium Plating and Rubber Electro-Plating.

Latest solutions for some of the scientific problems of industry will be discussed by William Blum, president of the American Electro-Chemical Association and head of that branch of research in the Bureau of Standards at St. Louis branch meetings tonight of the American Electro-Plating Association and tomorrow night of the American Chemical Society.

The Government saves thousands of dollars a year by printing paper money with chromium plating. Dr.
Blum said upon his arrival here today. The process of plating this very hard metal has been perfected for practical purposes in the last two years, and several St.
Louis firms now are experimenting with it.

He saw great possibilities also in a method of depositing rubber on fabric by the electro-plating process, as worked out at the Eastman Kodak Co., and still under experiment. The rubber is suspended as colloidal particles in a solution subject to the electrical action, and is deposited on the cathode plate, instead of on the anode, which gets the deposit when the metal to be deposited is in solution.

WIDOW OF BURBANK UNABLE TO FINISH INCOMPLETE WORKS
Will Merely Preserve the New Varieties of Fruits and Flowers
He Developed.

By the Associated Press.
SANTA ROSA, Cal., March 28.— Convinced of the utility of depending on others to preserve the completed experiments of the late Luther Burbank, plant wizard, his widow has abandoned all plans for completing his uncompleted plant experiments to maturity. The completed work—definite fixed new varieties of fruit and flowers—will be preserved by Mrs. Burbank and Paul Stark of Louisiana, Mo.

"I am not financially able to do more than to hold these plant experiments as they are," the widow explained. "I want to make it clear that, except for saving perfected experiments as they were at the time of Mr. Burbank's death, and for the experiments I am trying with new varieties of apples, nothing is being done that is in the slightest degree a continuation of the work of my husband."

LAXATIVES ONLY MADE HER WORSE

Emulsion Ended Constipation, Gave Her New Complexion
and Health.

For a number of years I suffered from constipation. I was continually taking pills and cathartics of all kinds, but after the effect of each dose wore off I seemed to be worse than ever. My complexion was sallow, my eyes dull, my brain sluggish. I had no appetite and no energy. Like a drowning person I struggled at every straw. Seeing that I was getting no relief from laxatives, I decided to try that, and was delighted with the results of the first bottle. Every day I noticed my improvement. My complexion cleared up, eyes became bright, and I began to have roses in my cheeks. I was entirely a different person. Eventually I took fifteen large bottles of Milk Emulsion, and look wonderful and feel the same. It absolutely made me over. I seem to have cleaned my entire system and made a new person of myself. Mrs. R. Campbell, Dyersburg, Tenn., R. R. No. 2.

Milk Emulsion restores healthy normal bowel action, doing away with all needs of pills and physics. It stimulates appetite and quickly puts digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, thus building flesh and strength, which are Nature's only conquering germs and repair the effects of wasting diseases. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is taken with a spoon like ice cream. Ideal for weak, sickly children. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk Emulsion. If not satisfied with results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. Sold by druggists everywhere.

FORECASTS FAILURE OF BRIDGE MEASURE

Wiehe Says That Aldermen
Will Not Pass Exchange
Bill.

Alderman Wiehe, chairman of the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which has the bill for exchange of uses of the Municipal and Eads bridges, predicted today that both the bill and the pending resolution, asking Secretary of War Davis to fix a basis for charges for railroad use of the Municipal Bridge, would die with the present session, April 8.

The resolution was introduced March 13 by Glendy B. Arnold, counsel for the Citizens' Bridge and Terminal Committee, which backed the bridge exchange bill. Its purpose was to satisfy the objections of the two independent switching lines desiring to use the Municipal bridge. These are the Manufacturers' Railway, in South St. Louis, and the Alton & Southern, on the East Side. But at a hearing Wednesday representatives of both the Manufacturers' Railway and the Alton & Southern objected to the resolution.

At the last hearing, it was promised that Frank H. Gerhart, veteran contender on bridge problems, and opponent of the bridge exchange bill, should have as much time as he desired, within the limits of one afternoon, at the next hearing. Chairman Wiehe today set the next hearing for 2 p. m. Wednesday. He said that although the exchange bill would not be reported at this session, it might be reintroduced at the next session, and that continuance of the discussion now would help to inform members regarding it.

ANDREWS MEETS DISTILLERS
Haynes Also at Conference to Discuss Whisky Manufacture.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Concentration of existing stocks of whisky and plans for the manufacture of medicinal whisky to replenish the diminishing supply were discussed today at a meeting of nearly 75 distillers and other representatives of the liquor industry with Treasury officials.

Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition, and Roy A. Haynes, acting prohibition commissioner, attended. Virtually every section of the country was represented. The question of issuing permits for the manufacture of whisky was the main subject.

DAWES ARRANGED TO FILL REED COMMITTEE

Empowered Secretary to Supply Gap Caused by Resignation of Goff.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Vice President Dawes decided before departing for Panama to fill any vacancy that might occur in the Senate Campaign Funds Committee during the recess of Congress.

There had been much conjecture as to whether Dawes would appoint a successor to Senator Goff (Rep.), West Virginia, who has resigned. Some Senators have contended that the committee does not legally exist because the Senate failed to adopt a resolution specifically authorizing it to act during the recess of Congress.

The Vice President's decision was disclosed today by his secretary, E. Ross Bartley, who was empowered to name a committee member in the absence of Dawes. After conferences with Republican leaders as to whom they desired to be named, Bartley decided to hold the matter in abeyance until Dawes returns next month. The leaders said the situation had changed materially since the Vice President left Washington, because of the refusal of Chairman Keyes of the Senate Audit Committee to approve expenditures of the Reed committee and by the court action in Pennsylvania involving the ballots in four counties which that committee had sought in the Ware-Wilson senatorial contest. Another consideration in the decision for delay, it was explained, is that a majority of the committee now is at the call of the chairman, Senator Reed of Missouri.

Senator Shortridge (Rep.) California, who will become chairman of the Elections Committee at the next session has been most prominently mentioned as Senator Goff's successor.

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH BEING OPERATORS OF POLICY GAME
Arrest Follows Complaint of Negro That He Was Unable to Collect His Winnings.

Bert Casserly, 57, of 24 Lewis place, and his nephew, Ray Casserly, 27, of 4461 Olive street, were arrested Saturday evening by Detective-Sergeant Mulcahy of the police gambling squad, charged by the police with being the operators of the "Reno policy game." They were released on bond pending application for a warrant, and made no statement.

Detective-Sergeant Mulcahy describes the "Reno game" as the largest ever operated in St. Louis. He says that the Casserlys were named by James Merrell, Negro chauffeur of 5636 Waterman avenue, a dissatisfied customer, and Vergil Bailey, a Negro, of 2729 Walnut street, agent of the Reno game, as the men behind the operation. The arrests followed complaint of Merrell that he had won $425.40 on tickets in the lottery, and was refused payment by its operators.

Merrell's story to the police was that he had bought 20 numbers, called "a bunzlowl," from Harold Wheeler, Negro, of 4422 West Belle avenue, an agent of the Reno pool. When the pool refused to pay off, he protested to Wheeler and the latter sent Bailey to see him. He was told to meet Bailey and Ray Casserly at Bailey's home one evening. He kept the appointment, and Ray Casserly, according to Merrell, told him $75.40 was all the "game" would pay. Merrell says he accepted this sum and complained to Sgt. Mulcahy.

Attorney for People's Concern to Submit Testimony on Earnings and Street Wear.

A public hearing on a proposal to increase the tax on motorbuses from 2 to 3 per cent on gross income was set for 2 p. m. Monday by the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which met today to consider the proposal.

Mayor Miller urged approval of the proposed ordinance, and the committee was told that city engineers had reported the buses were injurious to the streets. Robert Burkham, attorney for the People's Motor Bus Co., asked for the public hearing so he might present expert testimony on the question of damage to the streets and sub-

Miss Collett In Semifinals Of Golf Tourney

Miss Quier Defeats Miss Orcutt in North and South Competition.

By the Associated Press. PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., former national women's champion, today loomed as the favorite in the women's united north and south golf championship with Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago as her most formidable competitor.

Miss Collett defeated Miss Ronald Brown of Philadelphia, 2 up; Miss Van Wie defeated Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 3 and 1; Mrs. Baker defeated Mrs. F. C. Burrows of New York, 5 and 4; and Miss Quier defeated Miss Maurine Englewood, N. J., metropolitan champion, 4 and 2.

The semifinals will be played tomorrow. Miss Collett playing Miss Quier and Mrs. Baker meeting Miss Van Wie.

INDIANAPOLIS TENPIN STARS GO INTO LEAD

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 28.—Indianapolis Elks continued to blast the setups in the minor events of the Elks' bowling tournament here yesterday with the same heat that landed them first and third places in the team event last night. Cincinnati and Louisville Elks rolled on the same shifts, failed to win a place in Indianapolis, played five men among the individual leaders and three doubles teams among the two-man leaders.

Jess Pritchett, veteran of many A. C. C. tournaments, and Ed Harkender also landed third and second, respectively, in the all-event.

The team of C. Rasmussen and L. Wiseman, Indianapolis, assumed the lead in the doubles with a 1522 total to displace the Sandusky (O.) combination of C. Bogert and J. Naus. The new leaders rolled as follows: C. Rasmussen—195, 182, 221—606. L. Wiseman—200, 228, 224—652. Total—1258.

How the 5 Basic Tests used by experts confirm La Palina's Out-Standing Quality

1. Burn. La Palina passes this first expert test 100 per cent, with its free, even, uniform burn and fine long ash.
 2. Aroma. The mild, soothing, deliciously fragrant aroma of La Palina is convincing evidence of the finest tobaccos.
 3. Taste. La Palina's smooth, cool mellowness is always a joy. Never any bitterness or bite.
 4. Color. Experts instantly approve the rich light brown of La Palina. No pale, greenish, immature leaves.
 5. Workmanship. Every La Palina is faultlessly made—smooth, firm, never hard nor too spongy.

6000 SEE MORGANS AND KILLARNEYS IN LONG - DRAW - OUT TIE

EXTRA PERIOD FAILS TO BREAK 1-1 DEADLOCK

Second Game of Mury Soccer Title Series Will Be Replayed Next Sunday; Goalies and Fullbacks Star.

Principally because each team was blessed with a very brilliant goal tender and a pair of steady strong-kicking fullbacks, the Killarneys and the Morgans played to a 1-1 tie score yesterday afternoon at Fairground in the second game of the Municipal Soccer League championship series. The match will be replayed next Sunday at the same field. Yesterday's game was called after 30 minutes of regular play and two extra periods of 15 minutes each.

Of the two goal tenders, George Sauter of the Morgans was the more remarkable because he was more sorely tried than Nick Kelly of the Killarneys. One goal got by each of them, but in neither case was the goal tender to blame. Benoit scored for the Killarneys and McGinn for the Morgans.

Boys Will Be Boys

A crowd of 6000 appeared to enjoy the game immensely, the greater share of the cheering going to the Morgans, who, on the whole, played the cleaner game. In the latter part of the second half a small riot developed when Halfback Lee, representing some plain and fancy rough work by McGinn of the Morgans, seized the latter around the neck and bore him to the ground where he was promptly jumped upon.

Fullback Palmer of the Morgans ran the entire length of the field to act as "peace maker." He was restrained from taking too big a piece. Referee Kavanaugh, who is no stranger to riots on a soccer field, tried to see that there was no hitting in the clinches and no biting, and after everyone had got tired punching he placed the ball for a free kick.

There was very little that could be mistaken for a goal either side. The progress of the game proved beyond question that Municipal soccer is not one small step better today than it was 10 years ago. The only pretense at combination in either forward line was an occasional flash of short

Time Out for Injuries.

There was one other good forward on the field, Ollie Brannan, who found himself at various stages of the game playing center forward, inside left, inside right and outside left.

Perhaps the boys are not to blame for playing bad football since no one ever teaches them good football, but surely any football player can be expected to get into good physical condition. After 60 minutes of play the playing field took on the appearance of a battle ground, with wounded lying all over the place. None received serious injuries, but at least three of them had their legs doubled up because of cramps. The poor condition of the players is a reflection on the Municipal League.

Although the Rules of the game provide clearly that injured players shall be removed to the sidelines and the game proceed, the referees halted the play every time some poorly conditioned player sat down with a cramp in his leg. Six thousand persons protested against this needless delay, but the officials heard not.

The Morgan halfbacks covered well, growing more effective as the game grew older.

There was nothing orderly about the play of the Killarneys. The inside forwards, especially Jim McCarthy, did not drop back when the Morgans were in possession of the ball. Benoit, when he did drop back, covered no one in particular but just ran around looking for a kick.

The Morgans made good use of the throw-in. Center Halfback Hartigan receiving the ball almost invariably, and the Killarneys never

15,000 PRESENT AS FALL RIVER WINS SOCCER CUP GAME

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. FALL RIVER, Mass., March 28.—Fall River eliminated New Bedford from the National Challenge Cup series here yesterday afternoon in the first round before about 15,000.

The winners gave a fine exhibition, showing their best form of the season. Bobby Rock did much to break up the defense of the Whalers. Dave McGachran was the star, tallying two goals, the first of the day in the opener and the equalizer a few minutes after the interval.

Gibson, fullback of New Bedford, accidentally kicked the ball into his own net for the deciding marker. Alec Lorimer evened the count in the first period for New Bedford, tallying two goals, the first of the day in the opener and the equalizer a few minutes after the interval.

Three minutes before the half ended, Patterson, late of Fall River, put the Whalers one up with a clever back kick.

Miss Schmidt and Mrs. Langner Win

Pair Gain Four Medals in Women's Scratch Bowling Tourney.

Mrs. A. W. Langner and Miss E. Schmidt gained a major share of the honors in the St. Louis Women's Bowling Association annual scratch tournament which came to a close on the Washington alleys yesterday. Mrs. Langner and Miss Schmidt captured the doubles championship, while Mrs. Langner topped the all-events medal, while Miss Schmidt took the singles.

Mrs. M. Kelly Jr., president of the association, presented the medals to the winners.

Mrs. Langner and Miss E. Schmidt rolled 182 in the doubles, Miss Schmidt 545 in the singles and Mrs. Langner 1621 in the all-events.

Bantam Title Is Still Without Permanent Home

Taylor and Canzoneri Will Be Billed Again by Mullen, in Outdoor Arena.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 28.—The mythical bantamweight boxing crown and the genuine $4000 jeweled championship belt are still homeless today.

Bud Taylor and Tony Canzoneri failed to establish their undisputed claim to the heroisms in 10 sparkling rounds Saturday night. The two judges and Referee Joe Chovinsky decided that their heads were bloody but unbowed, and only a handful of Taylor partisans booed the draw decision.

Plans for a second meeting at an outdoor spot here were begun today by Promoter Jim Mullen, who furnished the diamond-studded belt.

Taylor forced the fighting from the start and seemed to have the situation well in hand at the end of the ninth round. The chunky little New York Italian, however, put on a tenth-round battle that undoubtedly influenced the judges' decision in awarding a draw.

Archie Bell of Brooklyn surprised the crowd by registering a clean-cut victory over Johnny Varca, Boston bantam, who was expected to be the challenger to the main-bout winner.

Rickard After Bout.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. NEW YORK, March 28.—Promoter Tex Rickard was negotiating today for a bantamweight championship contest to be held here this summer between Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., and Tony Canzoneri of Brooklyn, who fought a 10-round draw in Chicago on Saturday night.

AMERICAN BOXER IS WINNING IN INDIA

By the Associated Press. LAWRENCE, Mass., March 28.—A New England boxer has traveled a long way for a fight. According to reports here, Gunboat Jack, former Lawrence boxer, is "cleaning them up" in India. He defeated Gunboat Melvin, soldier boxer, in 20 rounds and Milton Kubes, native Indian, in 15 rounds.

Free-for-All Fist Fight Ends 1924 Olympic Soccer Champions' Tilt at Newark

Tour Threatened as Result of Outbreak, Second in Two Days by Uruguayan Players—Score Is 1 to 0 When Police Put End to Hostilities.

By the Associated Press. NEWARK, N. J., March 28.—The fiery temperament of the Uruguayan soccer team, in the United States for a series of exhibition games, today threatened to mar the tour of the 1924 Olympic champions.

The South Americans caused suspension of a game with the Newark club of the American Soccer League here yesterday when faced with the first defeat of the invasion. With Newark leading 1 to 0 and 20 minutes to play in the last half, the Uruguayans, who were half-Cos, Uruguay, inside left, started a fist fight with Daley of Newark. The fight spread to other members of the teams, part of the 2000 spectators rushed on the field to take part, and police reserves finally were needed to quell the rumpus.

Marshall Misses Penalty. Referee J. Walders of Philadelphia, although roughly handled in the melee, was willing to continue the game but police escorted him from the field to prevent further disorder. No one was more than slightly hurt in the scrimmage, although the field was littered with broken umbrellas, parts of clothing and hats.

An outbreak narrowly was avoided early in the game when Walders awarded Newark a penalty kick after a Uruguay foul. The players milled around the official but trouble was avoided when Capt. Marshall deliberately shot wide of the goal. The South Americans arrived an hour late for the contest, which, like their two previous games, was played on a slippery field with rain and snow falling.

Andrade Is Real Hero.

Clashes between the Uruguayans and members of the Brooklyn Wanderers, who played to a 2-2 tie in Brooklyn Saturday, marred the contest, although there was no general outbreak.

The only man on the visiting team who seemed to keep his head was Andrade, the negro right half-back. He endeavored to lead his side back on the field, Andrade

AMERICAN SPEEDBOAT WINS IN FREE-FOR-ALL

By the Associated Press. HAVANA, March 28.—Mrs. Connors of Buffalo, N. Y., won her race yesterday with speed boat, "Miss Connors," when she flashed over the line 10 seconds ahead of "Miss Beach," driven by Norman K. in the 20-mile free-for-all race.

The races were run in the Gulf of Mexico, in water somewhat rough, in northeast wind was fresh. The only accident of the day occurred after a good start when President Machado's "Cuba" overturned after a good start with the "Cuba," running Mrs. Connors in the "Cuba" overturned.

Valdes hurt his hand. The boat was towed back up to the bar and righted. That race called off.

The mile of sea wall over the course was crowded with people.

CRIPPLED BY PAINFUL SWELLING IN HIS LEG

Trouble gone after few applications of simple remedy

As he came in from work in the evening, a garage worker of Shreveport, La., felt a pain in his left leg above the ankle, and the next morning it was badly swollen and worried him when walking.

"I applied Sloan's Liniment to that night," he writes, "and the pain nearly all left. I applied it again and the next day the swelling was all gone. For all aches and pains I find nothing to beat Sloan's Liniment. I keep a bottle in the garage where I work."

Sloan's gets results because it stirs up the body's own powers to heal itself. Just put it on, and at once you can feel the fresh blood tingling through the sick tissues. Inflammation, swelling, stiffness, pain, begin to give way at once.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

RUPTURE EXPERTS

For Men, Women and Children

COMING TO
ST. LOUIS

Representing
WM. S. RICE, Inc.
of ADAMS, N. Y.

The Rice Rupture Method Experts, personal representatives of William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., will be at the Jefferson Hotel, 12th and Locust Sts., St. Louis, Mo., from Monday morning, March 28, until Saturday evening, April 2. Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this great opportunity. The Rice Method for Rupture is known the world over. You can now see this method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pushing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore. Can be worn night and day with positive comfort. Soft, rubber-like composition pad, any degree of pressure required.

Don't wear a truss all your life when thousands have reported cures through using the Rice Method. Why suffer the burden of rupture if there is a chance to be free from truss-wearing forever? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers in your case. Remember these Experts will be here only six days, then your opportunity will be gone. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Method and they will do the rest. Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Women and young children receive personal attention of Lady Expert in separate apartments.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these Experts on Hernia. If for any reason you cannot call write for FREE TRIAL to

"Tanlac Did It"
Says Mo. Pac. Man

Aged Missouri man, after six years' illness, now enjoys robust health. Friends wonder at his strength and vigor. Tells them "Tanlac did it."

Though for six years he was an invalid, John H. Hahn of 308 Clay Street, Jefferson City, is still going strong. This respected citizen who works for the Missouri Pacific R. R. tells of his experience.

"The younger men have nothing on me now," he said. "For six years I was in bad shape and could hardly keep going. I was weak, nervous and rundown, had dizzy spells that frightened me. I certainly thought I was through then, for nothing seemed to help."

"The first relief I ever got was from Tanlac. I persevered with it and soon won back my old time strength and vigor. Now at 71 I sleep, eat and feel as well as ever. I enjoy my work and never miss a day. My friends wonder how I do it. It's no mystery at all. Since I found the value of Tanlac I keep a bottle in the house at all times. It never fails to snap me back to good, sound health."

If you're feeling below par, give Tanlac a trial. Tanlac is nature's own remedy made from roots, herbs and herbs. Your druggist has it. Get a bottle today. 50,000,000 bottles sold.

RADIO MEN WORK OUT WAVE LENGTH PLAN

Will Present Proposed Assignment of Broadcasting Channels to Federal Board.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 28.—Reassignment of radio wave lengths in a manner that will bring order out of the chaos existing in the present broadcasting situation can be accomplished within 60 days without disrupting any of the 723 existing stations in the United States, it is announced by the National Association of Broadcasters and the Radio Manufacturers' Association.

A plan which it is claimed will bring about this result had been drafted by the two associations and will be presented at a hearing in Washington tomorrow before the Federal Radio Control Commission.

Taking Care of Canada. Preliminary assignment of six exclusive wave lengths to Canada, the associations said, will take care of at least six major stations in the dominion. In addition, it was pointed out that the Canadians for two years have shared time on 12 other wave lengths and it is proposed to add four channels to this number. It is said that these 16 shared wave lengths will be ample to accommodate all of Canada's 56 stations under their existing power.

On the American share of these 16 channels, the associations said it is possible to accommodate the 26 stations of 500-watt power located in the Southern part of the United States and also to take care of 150 of the American 50-watt stations, without working a hardship on any. This would leave 73 exclusive channels for the remaining 547 American stations.

Twenty-two of these channels would be used for the 139 existing stations of 500 watts, an average of six stations per wave length. Considering power and geographical location, the associations said this "can in all probability be well worked out."

This would leave 51 channels to accommodate the 113 American stations now operating on 1000 watts or more, an average of a little better than two stations per channel, which the plan said presents a hopeful situation.

Trouble in Two Cities. In the opinion of the associations, this plan would eliminate broadcasting interference. "It is true that the concentration points of all high-powered stations are around New York City and Chicago," the associations said,

"and the commission may encounter some difficulty in adjusting such a scheme at these two points. However, the situation presents such good possibilities that it is felt that it can be solved in this latter respect without undue difficulty."

Destroy 6000 Cases of Liquor. NORFOLK, Va., March 28.—Two carloads of broken glasses are all that remain of hundreds of cases of pre-war liquor. United States Marshal Smithers and a crew of sailors are engaged in destroying 6000 cases, seized on the barge Marconito Egan and the Honduran auxiliary schooner Juliet. Although the crew has been working three days, Marshal Smithers estimates, it will take seven more days to complete the task. The liquor has been stored in the paval operating base here.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a heavy feeling, indigestion or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without irritating or harming. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Fat what you like. 15c 30c 60c.

THE RAGGED EDGE

A NEW STORY OF LOVE, ADVENTURE AND MYSTERY

HENRY C. ROWLAND

CHAPTER I

UNDINE GOES A-CALLING.

THE new home built to the design of "Bengal" Dodd was a distinct departure from the conventional modern dwelling of its size and cost. He foresaw that from any viewpoint, that of beauty, practicality, stress of weather to which it was bound to be exposed, the structure he had planned would be subject to criticism both searching and severe, especially from architects who had made an exhaustive study of the requirements involved.

But Bengal was a bit of an iconoclast about his own affairs, and did not hesitate to brush aside orthodoxy of theory when it clashed with his own ideas. He knew what he wanted and went after it as indifferent to the hostile comment that would be forthcoming as to the possible approval of some few independent persons of practical experience who might see with the same eyes. Bengal was building for his own use and tenantry, with no thought in reserve that he might one day wish to lease or sell or even share his home.

This domicile when completed was 45 feet long by 17 1/2 feet wide. It was spacious within, one plan cut into four sections, servants' quarters, pantry and kitchen, living room and Bengal's personal quarters. The construction was very strong throughout, the builders maintaining that it would support the shock and strain of a couple of tons of solid water dumped upon it suddenly, which its owner-architect averred could never happen, barring a waterspout. Two solid tree trunks, smoothly dressed, were set down in the foundation to rise through the middle of the structure to heights of 40 and 45 feet in the very free air.

To prove the result of his theories as to what such an abode ought to be at all seasons and in every sort of weather, Bengal shifted this new one from East Boothbay down to Bermuda in the dead of winter. His household during this change of base consisted of an elderly Maine coast fisherman as rough as wire rigging and his two equally tough fibred sons. The trying out was thorough as heart could wish, first a clear glare from west by north that sheathed everything in ice, then at the end of the second day a sudden plunge into the tepid water of the gulf stream and for the next five days hard but warmer winds that, while not directly contrary, yet drove such a tumultuous sea as to make rough sledding of it. Bengal could have asked nothing better for the vindication of theories based on practice that had led to his abrupt departure from the present day models of safe and happy seagoing homes.

"Never a bucketful of green water aboard," he said to a much interested visitor who called on him in Hamilton. "We had 10 inches of frozen spray on deck when we struck the stream, but she carried it like an ice truck."

The man to whom he spoke was Granville Boyd, whom Bengal knew by reputation as a serious minded sea lover of scientific tastes and attainments, and possessed of ample means to combine with yachting a purposeful objective. Boyd had done some Arctic exploration, oceanography, deep sea dredging and the like. He told Bengal that he was now en route for the South Pacific aboard his 70-foot auxiliary ketch Rigel on a semiscientific expedition. Rigel was like Bengal's Gunga, a new vessel thought not on her maiden voyage, and the last word in all that her owner-designer and builders claimed that an offshore auxiliary cruising yacht should be. But in this respect she stood at the other extreme of which Gunga was the somewhat exaggerated type. Rigel was deep drafted, of great beam, withoutside ballast, fine overhanging bow and stern and a little cramped below because of cut up accommodations.

Boyd told Bengal that he had as guests three friends, of whom two were scientists and the third a former South Sea missionary who desired to do some research in ethnology, of which he had made a considerable study. This gentleman, the Rev. Dr. Kennedy, wished also to visit such missions as might fall within their itinerary and report upon their progress and conditions. Boyd also made rather casual mention that his sister was of the party, and for some reason Bengal inferred that this lady was likewise a savant of sorts, older probably than Boyd, who looked to be in his middle thirties.

Having shipped his Maine crew only for the run to Bermuda, Bengal paid them off and sent them back to their icebound home, signing on in their place a Bermuda colored man named Quentin, for cook. He had planned an extensive voyage, if Gunga worked out as he hoped, and now that she had done so Bengal thought he might persuade at least two of his many friends to sail with him in the capacity of working guests. A comparatively small independent income required him to cut down the overhead where possible.

Meantime, Hamilton was a pleasant place to wait at that season. Then, the day after Boyd's friendly visit, as Bengal was writing some letters in the shade of the after awning, a tow headed girl came swimming alongside from nowhere that he could determine and greeted him in pleasant informal fashion.

"Good afternoon, Bungle," said she, cheerfully.

"Good afternoon," Bengal answered politely, and added with a shade of irony: "I hope I see you well." He had not the re-as so to face him. They were small rosy members, dimpled like a baby's. Bengal observed that one of them was twitching, nervously.

"What else?" he asked.

"O, nothing about you. An inheritance of sorts. You see, Bungle, some of us inherit from the tiger hunter, and others from the tiger. Some are protectors of the starving poor, and others preys on the overfed rich. Your father was the former. They worshipped him as tutelary deity in India. My grandfather was the latter. They'd have clapped him in jail if he hadn't been so rich himself."

It struck Bengal that some keeper or attendant ought to catch it for letting her slip off like this. It wasn't safe for such a lovely bit of flotsam to be drifting round that way. Brain and body drifting, it seemed to him.

CHAPTER II.

THE PEARL DIVER.

THE girl's rambling talk had first roused Bengal's curiosity, but now a disturbing suspicion was creeping in. He studied her more closely, in the swift unobtrusive way to which he had been trained, wondering if it were possible that there could be a mental blemish in a creature otherwise so perfect. She stirred his deepest instinct, which was the protective one inherited from a father who was absolutely without fear, and with that quality also the son had been endowed.

"What is your name?" he asked, directly.

"Carillon, the French for chimes, you know. Church bells, wedding bells. Mine are out of accord. Jangled. Off the key. But I have my gifts." She gave a tinkling laugh that was tuneless enough. "I can read not only most icy idea who his visitor might be. Some saucy flapper from the big hotel, no doubt, because we happen to be on the same wave length. You are a lawyer, and until about a year ago you were in the District Attorney's office, in New York. You were making quite a reputation as a criminologist until you slipped up, or rather down on a big case. Opened your strong grip on the neck of a crook and let him make his getaway, because you were sorry for him or for his family."

Bengal frowned. "All that was in the papers."

"Yes. And it came near landing you in a worse place, participate in a crime, or accessory after the fact, or something. So you had this boat built to sail off and sulk aboard. But the sea is curing you of that."

Bengal nodded. "It's big enough to wash away anything so trivial."

She shook her head. "That depends. My own troubles aren't soluble in a saline solution. But if I were you, I wouldn't carry it too far. Don't go out to India."

"Why not?"

"She might reclaim you. Powerful inscrutable India would scarcely permit of an alien baby catching its first breath, then spending its first five years on her bosom without in some way getting her seal on it. And some of your detective work shows that she has dowered you with certain gifts."

"Apparently she is not the only one to do that."

"No, I have my pagan protectress, too. Aphrodite? She seems to have gifted you in certain ways."

"No, Pandora. I opened the box that let out the troubles for my family and friends. I can't claim to be a seeress, Bungle. You were my hero as a little girl, and I've followed your career."

"Bungle and all."

"Yes, I saw you lose a Harvard-Princeton game by fumbling the ball, years and years ago, when I was sub-deb. You bungled twice, in fact, and it cost me very dear."

"How dear?"

"O, blooming dear, Bungle dear." She gave him the sort of smile he would have expected, one that made a reverse curve on her delicate red lips. "I bet a man a kiss against his pearl scarpin on Harvard. It started me all wrong, and that's the reason I'm here today, on my way to the end of the world instead of making trouble at Palm Beach. And it's all your fault."

Bengal did not deny this. "Well, then her?"

"What can I do about it?" he asked. The glamour of the girl was getting in its work on him. The heavier the body, the harder it falls.

"When do you expect to sail?" Carillon asked.

"I haven't fixed the date."

"Well, then make it soon, and let me know in time."

"That sounds as if you were planning some sort of getaway yourself, Carillon, and to make me participate in it again."

"Well, if you were willing to risk that for a man you owed nothing, why shouldn't you for a girl to whom you owe a lot? If you hadn't fumbled the ball and lost me my bet, I mightn't have become a pearl diver."

"How deeply have you dived?"

"Close to the bottom. At least, they'll tell you that."

"Then they shall be asked to prove it. Do you happen to know the Rignels?"

His question was prompted by Carillon's having swung round to stare at Boyd and his guests in the yacht's gig, just going alongside and having come, evidently, from the opposite shore of the harbor. Carillon sat straightly, watching them.

"I know them a lot better than they will ever know me," she said, absently, then asked abruptly: "I'd like to look over your boat."

"My cordial invitation for you to do so includes your chaperone."

"Play safe, don't you, Bungle?"

"About some things. If you had done so you might be in Palm Beach now, instead of sleepy old Bermuda."

"I'm rather glad to be here, at this moment. You are just the sort I had imagined you."

"Since I was your childish hero, thanks awfully. They don't often stand the test of time."

"Nor that of the self-sacrificing devotion to their worshipers."

"After all they are merely lay figures on which to drape an ideal," Bengal observed.

"Fraid so." She was still staring at Rigel as she spoke. "Why don't those high-brows go below? So many in one bunch is a blot on the background."

"Look at me then. I'm anything but that."

"You are a sort of policeman and that's worse."

"No longer, nor ever again."

"One can never tell. Once a cop always a cop at heart. Anyhow it's a lot more interesting than goggling at the white Indians of Darien and bones and fossils and statues on Easter Island and the Christian missions of

CHAPTER III.

A PROPOSED VOYAGE.

Carillon was interrupted by a sudden commotion of the group on the quarterdeck of the Rigel. Boyd had sprung suddenly to his feet and was staring wildly across at Gunga. He barked an order at Jansen, who began to haul the gig back alongside in a scared and hurried way. Behind Boyd, the three savants were also staring, rigid as if petrified.

Bengal began to do a little staring himself. But before he could speak, Carillon rose lightly to her feet, like a gull taking wing. She did not slip and slither over side, in the fashion of a mermaid so much suggested by the upper section of her, but sprang lightly atop of the after cabin house, which was rather well raised.

"Au voir, Bungle. It's all your fault, for losing me that bet so many years ago. But don't worry. I'll tell old Granville that I boarded you unasked and even despite your protests. I need a friend, just now, and may ask you to rally round. So I'll forgive you that last bet on one condition."

"What's that?"

"Ask my brother if he'd mind your tagging along after us. I don't think he'd object. You made a hit with him, and besides he said that it would be interesting to see how these two opposite extremes of seaboard would check up on a long deep water run. He had an argument about it last night with Jim Howland. Know Jim?"

"I know who he is. Yachting fan."

"That's the bird. He's up at the hotel with his daughter. Jim favors your broad beamed light draught type. Better sign him on and come along. He'd go like a shot. Crazy about boats but hasn't any money any more." She and rubies and sapphires and emeralds. She collects them. Haven't you heard about a green sea otter.

It was this same Jim Howland who gave Bengal rather more than a thumbnail sketch of Carillon Boyd.

"Anything but. I'm surprised she's not known to you by reputation. You can't have any friends up at the hotel."

"Haven't yet made rounds there." Bengal looked at her a little puzzled. With all his keenness for placing people or perhaps because of it he would never have suspected that such a high endeavor ship as Rigel and commanded by so correct a man as Granville Boyd who was his own master and navigator could include in its complement this sea-green Undine who was paying him a call. As for her being Boyd's sister the idea was too

"What is her technique?" Bengal asked.

"She's a constitutional and ruthless flirt. Carries on to the point of getting herself engaged, ring and everything, then puts her bomb aboard and sheers off. A dull concussion, a plunge, when the wave-lets ruffle on over the spot where the ill starred fiancé has been."

"Do the rings and things go back?"

"They do not. If Gran wasn't a millionaire, they'd say that she was out for the spoils, a pearl diver. And they'd be right."

An old Philadelphia lady whose son had been a classmate of Bengal, gave him a more sinister portrait of this Lorelei that he was already feverish about.

"Nobody has ever attacked her reputation in the ordinary sense, Mr. Dodd. She's as virtuous as a Spartan girl, no doubt. But queer things have happened at some of these 'wild parties' as they call them that she's managed to attend. Jewels disappearing, once or twice for good, but on several occasions anonymously restored. Carillon Boyd is known to have a passion for jewels."

"A kleptomaniac?" Bungle ventured.

"Yes . . . when you are rich," the good lady answered dryly.

So here, Bengal reflected, was at least one good reason for Granville Boyd's proposed semiscientific voyage round the world, taking his sister with him. He might have wielded the big stick, given his ill balanced and beautiful sister her choice of that or an institution. A passion for jewels, a submerging tyrannical and ungovernable cupidity for the possession of precious gems was in her blood, to the exclusion, as it would appear, of other warmer passions. No breath of scandal in the usual sense seemed ever to have touched her. She lured rich men young and old only for their gifts, these usually too proud to reclaim them when eventually flouted. Her brother's authority had evidently fallen short of compelling Carillon to restore the more or less free gifts made her.

And yet in spite of what he could not, disbelieve, Bengal had already fallen a helpless victim to her allure, at first sight, almost while in the act of hauling her aboard his boat for his undoing. He asked Granville Boyd's permission to tag along after Rigel.

"I'm in love with your sister," he said, frankly, "but that's hopeless, of course. My income will barely run my ship."

Boyd gave him a harassed look. "I suppose they've told you all about Carillon up there. It's no secret. The poor girl's afflicted. It's a dementia . . . an idea fixe."

"Yes, I've heard all that."

"Well, then the rest is your own lookout. Come along, by all means. I sometimes think her only salvation may be to fall in love, and who knows, you might be the sacrifice."

"Aside from that, I'd like to compare boats," Bengal said. "You are bigger and faster, of course, but Howland thinks he can work out a fairly proportionate time allowance for distance."

Boyd nodded. "Jim can, if anybody can. He has eaten and drunk and dreamed boats from boyhood. He is a nautical encyclopedia, and at the same time practical. For a good many years before he lost his fortune he did all the dirty work of club cruises and regattas and the Lord knows how many he has owned and sailed. Also he is the author of a course in navigation, all the old stuff on the dump. So he is going with you!"

"Yes. He is keen as a boy."

"Well, he is a boy, for all his 40 and odd. How about his daughter?"

"Gertrude is coming, too, of course. And I'm shipping a Bermuda sailor, besides the cook."

"Fair enough. Gertrude has been well trained by her father, more like a boy. She can steer a compass course and navigate. Standing daylight wheel tricks helps out. Gertrude's a charming kid, if you like the husky boy type. How old is she now, 15, 16?" Boyd's voice had a tone of forced indifference that Bengal

Bengal was not entirely pleased.

"A kleptomaniac?"

"We've always had some sort of yacht and Jansen."

Losing More Good Looks Than Weight Trying To Get Thin on an Unbalanced Diet

Control Your Weight!

THIS is the sixth of a series of articles on "Control Your Weight," written by members of the Adult Weight Conference, called by officers of the American Medical Association. The papers are prepared with the editorial cooperation of the American Medical Association. Next Monday Dr. Russell M. Wilder, professor of medicine, Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn., will discuss "Dieting to Reduce."

By JOHN E. LANE, M. D.
Consulting Dermatologist, New Haven Hospital.

FRENCH comic weekly recently pictured two modern, lily-shaped flappers in an art gallery. They were standing before the undraped statue of a classic Venus and exclaiming in unison: "What horrid figures they had in those days!"

There is no accounting for tastes. The full curves of Venus still find favor in my sight, but not in the eyes of the fashion makers. They have told women that they must look like boys and thousands who wouldn't listen to a doctor's advice hasten to obey the least whim of the capricious style.

Most of these Amazons are marching to their goal via the diet route; their motto is "Eat and Grow Thin." Some of them have adopted sensible, scientifically worked-out diets, which will reduce their weight without injuring their general health, but many others have pinned their faith to foolish formulas devised by persons with more zeal than knowledge. These formulas will sometimes reduce weight, but only too often the thoughtless woman who tries them will lose more than pounds; she may lose her good looks because of the disfiguring effect on her skin.

Radical Guidance Necessary.
This does not mean, of course, that the exceedingly fat person does not have obvious disadvantages. Among these are her oily, closing skin, with the small blood vessels swollen as though ready to burst. Such a person needs to get rid of some of her fat, but she runs much risk if she attempts it without careful, personal and radical guidance. The skin of the exceedingly fat person is easily susceptible to inflammation and superficial infection.

While real overweight is certainly a disadvantage not only to looks, but to health, before reducing an attempt should be made to determine the normal weight of the individual, and the reduction of weight should not be carried much below that point. Too rapid and ill-advised reduction is also dangerous. The skin in such cases loses some of its resistance to disease and stubborn infections may occur. When reduction of weight is undertaken in middle life it has to be done very gradually, in order not to show marked effects on the appearance of the skin. The loss of only a few pounds will frequently make the skin of the face wrinkled and baggy.

If the reduction is carried too far or is carried out too rapidly, this effect is also seen in the hands. Their skin becomes loose, and the loss of some of the small amount of fat underneath allows the veins of the back of the hands to cause an unsightly appearance by their prominence and enlargement. Frequently in such cases the skin takes on an anemic look, healthy color is absent and a sallowness gives the distinct appearance of weariness and age. It takes constant vigilance to "keep that schoolgirl complexion" while reducing, and once lost in this way it may be months before it comes back.

Diet and the Skin.
Only recently have successful attempts been made to trace the exact relationship between internal disturbances caused by diet and their effect on the skin. There are so many things which affect the skin that, with our limited knowledge, it is rarely possible to trace exactly the effect of each. First of all comes the most casual observer can see the difference between the skin of the baby, the young person, the mature person and the old. There are also differences due to sex, differences that do not appear until the development of the sex organs at adolescence. The skin of some races is also quite different from that of others in many more ways than color.

The skin of the blonde is much more sensitive to many external influences than is that of the brunette. The skin of the fat person has a different appearance from that of the lean one. Climate has a marked influence on the appearance of the skin; the contrast between the soft, velvety skin of those living in a warm, moist climate and the dry, harsh skin of those living in a hot, dry, sunny region is considerable. In addition to these more general variations, there is much variety in individuals and their susceptibility to one influence or another that it can almost be said that everyone has a skin of his own. Indeed, the skin corresponds to the condition of the body, and is the "mirror" for all the changes that take place in the body.

"Malnutrition" has long been known as a cause of a number of diseases in which the skin is noticeably affected. Diseases arising from malnutrition are known as "deficiency diseases." One of the first which was recognized was scurvy, "the calamity of sailors." It attacks those who go for a long time without eating fresh meat or vegetables or any other food which contains vitamin C. In scurvy the skin is pallid, dry and rough, and in severe cases small and large hemorrhages occur in and under it.

What all these facts teach us is that, without question, the best diet suited for most of us is a varied one. For the present we must assume that in general the diet that gives the best results in the nourishment of the whole body is also a diet that gives the best results in the skin.

PETER RABBIT SEES A QUEER PROCESSION

Of course, nothing is really new so far as Old Mother Nature is concerned. But no person ever can see everything. So one of the boys of walking through the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and along the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool is in watching for things that are new to you. Peter Rabbit knows all about it. There are times when Peter thinks, "He knows all there is to know and see all there is to see; then he stumbles over something wholly new to him."

It happened that early one morning after the coming of Sweet Mistress Spring, Peter was over near where the Old Pasture meets the Great Mountain. Peter was possessed of the wandering foot as very many people are at this time of year. That is how he came to be away over there. A rustling sound caught Peter's attention.

"What's that?" he exclaimed to himself, and immediately sat up very straight, with his long ears pointing right straight up to the sky and his eyes opened very wide.

He heard the rustling sound in front of him, to the right of him, to the left of him, and even behind him. It was as if a Merry Little Breeze was stirring up the dry leaves on the ground. But there wasn't any Merry Little Breeze. No, sir, not a single Merry Little Breeze was anywhere about. Peter was puzzled. He looked this way and he looked that way along the ground. And suddenly he gave a little start. Yes, sir, he gave a little start. A good-sized member of the Snake family was traveling along just past him to one side. It was the first member of the Snake family Peter had seen since last summer, and he was on the point of asking Mr. Snake if he had spent a comfortable winter when he saw another Snake just a little bit bigger on the other side of him. Both were traveling along with their heads raised and apparently intent on their own business. Now and then they would run their slender tongues out. They moved along with unblinking eyes. But Peter knew that was because they couldn't blink. He knew that they had no eyelids. None of the Snake family has eyelids; therefore none can wink or blink.

Peter turned to look at one of the Snakes and then turned back to look at the other. Then he rubbed his eyes. Something had happened to this other Snake. It had grown smaller. Yes, sir, Peter was sure of it. Mr. Snake wasn't nearly as big as he was when he had first been seen by Peter. He looked back at the other one. This one had changed. It wasn't the same Snake at all. Do you wonder that Peter rubbed his eyes?

Most facts believe in a "curse," and food faddists are no exception. There are many "curses" of them, each believing that the key to health consists in leaving out altogether some particular class of foods, or even limiting themselves to one class. These people are filled with the burning zeal of missionaries, and their very enthusiasm sometimes seems to produce wonderful results. But their accomplishments do not last. After all, Dr. Rabbits' advice is still sound: "And if you desire to live in peace, joy, health, making yourself always merry, never trust those men that always pop out at one hole."

Milton Work's Bridge Pointers

THE pointer for today is: A repeated double is informative if the partner has not bid or doubled in the interim.

Let us consider two cases which will clearly illustrate.

(a) South one Heart, West double, North two Hearts, East pass, South pass, West double. This repeated double by West would be informative because East has not yet bid or doubled, and would say to East: "Although I know you did not feel even after my double, that you were strong enough to bid over an adverse two Hearts, and I thought I appreciate that you have not any material strength or any suit of unusual length, nevertheless, I have such great strength that I am underwriting safety in any one of the other three suits you bid." It is obvious that to make a second double requires materially greater strength than to make only one.

(b) South one Heart, West double, North pass, East two Diamonds, South two Hearts, West double, East in answer to the first double by West, which was informative, has shown his suit. West could obtain no advantage by asking for a repetition of the information already given. West, on the second round, was in position to advance East's Diamonds, to bid a suit of his own, or pass. When, instead of availing himself of any one of these three opportunities, he doubled, it must clearly be a business double.

The informative double occasionally is repeated a second time, made three times. For example: South one Heart, West double, North two Hearts, East pass, South pass, West double, North three Hearts, East pass, South pass, West double. West's third double in this case would be informative because East has not bid and the double of three Hearts is within the informative limitation. It would require great strength to justify the triple double because, when East has refused to speak after the second double, he must be extremely weak and without any five-card suit.

Of course any double, first, second or third of a four-bid would be business. In the case of South one Heart, West double, North two Hearts, East pass, South pass, West double, North three Hearts, East pass, South pass, West double, the first and second doubles by West would be informative, and the third would be business.

Peter looked way ahead. There were the two Snakes he had first seen. These were two other Snakes following behind the first ones. The rustling increased. Suddenly Peter found himself surrounded by members of the Snake family. There were Snakes on the right of him, Snakes on the left of him, Snakes in front of him and behind him. There were big Snakes, medium-sized Snakes and little Snakes. Peter didn't know what to make of it. Never had he seen anything like this before. He hadn't supposed there were so many members of the Snake family in all the Great World. None of them paid him the least attention. They seemed to be headed for somewhere and intent on getting there. Where they had come from Peter couldn't imagine. So Peter sat there and stared and stared while the Snakes passed him, rustling the dry leaves as they went. When the last one had disappeared, Peter rubbed his eyes again. "Well," said he, "I never did see anything like that."

Onion Soup With Cheese.

Peel and dice four large onions. Put two ounces of butter into a stew pan and put in the onions, cover and cook gently for about an hour but do not let them color. Next add one pint of milk, a half pint of white stock, a half cup of fine crumbs, pepper and salt, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cover and cook gently for three-quarters of an hour longer, then put through a sieve. Reheat, season to taste, and add a heaping teaspoonful of butter and a heaping tablespoonful of grated Swiss cheese.

Boiled Custard.

Heat two cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. When hot, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar; then pour the mixture over the beaten yolks of two eggs. Return to the double boiler and boil gently, stirring constantly until it is thick enough to coat the spoon. Then take the top with the custard right from the lower tin and set to cool. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring. When cold, place near the ice to chill. The custard may be served plain or over stewed or preserved fruit.

WHEN I see the white roses bloom in your garden as I pass, catch its delicate perfume, wind-tossed over sunny grass, comes a question that is not one easy to define: Is this loveliness I see in the white roses drifting here through the April light's grace something that can mark off the law of life? Can a law-allofted man mark off the law of life? Can I see the rose unfold? Ah, let him debate who will! No such problems vex my days while my glad eyes take their fill of the garden's flowering ways! I, who worship all things fair, holding beauty half divine, passing daily take my share of the white rose, yours or mine!

Mud Stains.

MUD stains should always be allowed to dry. Frequently only a careful brushing after the mud has been removed will disappear if sponged with alcohol.

A raw potato is frequently recommended, and this will remove mud from black fabric, but it is apt to leave a spot in colored materials. It is rather harsh treatment, so should be used only on firm fabrics that have a somewhat smooth finish.

After brushing, rub the stain with a cut raw potato. The film of starch which this leaves should be allowed to remain on the spot until perfectly dry, when it can be brushed off and the mud stain will disappear with it.

Maine Cookies.

Rub together three-quarters of a cupful of butter, a quarter cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of sugar. Add two beaten eggs, a cupful of milk, a teaspoonful of baking powder and five cupfuls of sifted flour. Mix well, roll thin, cut with cutter having inside ring, and bake quickly.

Eight Women in Ten

have discarded old hygienic methods for this new way—true protection—discards like tissue.

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

WHEN the world started expecting more of women, the old-time "sanitary pad" had to go. Doctors urge a new way. Millions employ it. You wear sheerest tissue without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day's handicaps.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . so times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . ending all fear of offending Discards as easily as tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX," at any drug or department store. Prove old ways an unnecessary risk. Be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Monday night. When I left for work this morning I said to Joan, "Don't tell me you are thinking of buying any more clothes when you go downtown with Mrs. Stewart today. I have not paid for my dress for two months ago when you were down town."

Joan said, "Oh, I am just going to help Mrs. Stewart look around." and I said, "I love the direct way you answer questions. Are you going to buy any more clothes or are you not?" and Joan said, "I'm not. I will hurt you so much. The shock of having something new would be too much for me, anyway."

But women are smart, and when I came home tonight I knew something had happened because there was a new dress in the closet and today is not my birthday, and Joan will cook them only on my birthday, or when she wants something, because she says they are piebald, and I am not sure what that means but I have a suspicion it is a dirty crack.

So I said, "Why this big concession on your part? Are you going to run away with another man and are trying to soften the blow?" and Joan said, "Did you have a bad day, dearest?" and when she calls me dearest I can always figure it is costing me several dollars a syllable, and I am glad she does not call me mama's sweet little precious petticoat.

I said, "Well, dress yourself up in the bad news you bought and let me see how much you. 'Were stung' and she said, 'Oh, I got the darndest little hat today. It was such a bargain I simply could not resist it,' and she brought it out and put it on, and I said, 'Last week when I offered to buy you a new hat if you would let me give the best at my poker party a little drink, you said you did not need a new hat.'"

That was an error on my part. Joan said, "Speaking of that poker party reminds me. You lost $21.40, didn't you?" and I said, "Well, yes," and she said, "Then we certainly shall not argue over the way I squander my money," and now she is sore at me because she had forgotten the $21.40, and she figures she just wasted giving me liver and bacon and calling me dearest when she had enough on me to make me buy her a new hat, and when I win in a poker game she gets half of it and when I lose she spends as much as I lost to then things up, and it may be true that you cannot go broke taking a profit, but the hard part is keeping the profit after you take it, if ever.

Sunday night. I do not like about this apartment because they live across the hall, came over to see us this afternoon, because they cannot stay at home by themselves or they would kill each other, and if they did you could not blame them, and they have joined the bridge club that Joan has joined for us, and that means every second Tuesday evening we will have to be where there are, and that leaves me a possible 42 nights in each two weeks that will be worth living.

I stood them for a few minutes, and then I said, "Well, I guess I will take the baby out for a buggy ride," and Mr. Stewart said, "I will come along with you," and I said, "I guess I won't go, after all."

So there I was, doomed for an afternoon with them, and that was bad enough by itself, but then Mrs. Stewart felt she had to start something or she would damage her reputation of playing a concert of her notes wherever she goes, and she said, "What are you going to wear to the bridge club Tuesday night, Joan?" and Joan said, "My dear, I don't know. I simply haven't a thing," and Mrs. Stewart said, "It will be our first night together, and I do hate to go looking so tacky."

Mrs. Stewart said bitterly, "It is a pity about you," and I said, "Ha, ha," sarcastically, because he has been married two years longer than I have and yet he does not know any better than to encourage his wife like that at a time like that, and when I think of him I realize it must be true that it takes all kinds of people to make a world, but the world would be better off if it did not, and why Mrs. Stewart married me, the hardest problem on earth until I started to figure out why he married her, and by that time you should be put in a strait-jacket or you will hurt yourself.

Well, the two women talked over the two hours flat, and you would think they were going to an inaugural ball instead of a cheap bridge game, and if I wrote down all they said my arm would be as sore as my head is, and besides my diary has not got many pages in it because it is a diary and not a ledger.

The only cheerful thing Joan could say in two hours was that she could not afford any new clothes now, but she is going to have the janitor's daughter stay with the baby a while tomorrow while she goes downtown with Mrs. Stewart, and they are just going to look around, she said, but looking is the most expensive thing there is when it is a woman who is looking.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis
OWNERSHIP.

WHEN I see the white rose bloom in your garden as I pass, catch its delicate perfume, wind-tossed over emerald grass, comes a question then to me not easy to define: Is it love, or is it just the fragrance drifting here through the April twilight's grace something that can mark off the land you hold, keep me from the joy that's mine when I see the rose unfold? Ah, let me debate who will! No such problems vex my days while my glad eyes take their fill of the garden's fragrant ways! I, who worship all things fair, holding beauty half divine, passing daily take my share of the white rose, yours or mine!

Mud Stains.

MUD stains should always be allowed to dry. Frequently only a careful brushing after that will effectually remove all traces of the stain. Stubbly stains will disappear if sponged with alcohol.

A raw potato is frequently recommended, and this will remove mud from black fabrics, but it is apt to leave a spot in colored materials. It is rather harsh treatment, so should be used only on firm fabrics that have a somewhat smooth finish.

After brushing, rub the stain with a cut raw potato. The thin film of starch which this leaves should be allowed to remain on the spot until perfectly dry, when it can be brushed off and the mud stain will disappear with it.

Maine Cookies.

Rub together three-quarters of a cupful of butter, a quarter cupful of lard and two cupfuls of sugar. Add two beaten eggs, a half cupful of milk, a teaspoonful of baking powder and five cupfuls of sifted flour. Mix well, roll thin, cut with cutter having inside ring, and bake quickly.

Eight Women in Ten

BY ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

WHEN the world started expecting more of women, the old-time "sanitary pad" had to go.

Doctors urge a new way. Millions employ it. You wear sheerest frocks without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day unhandicapped.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending all fear of offending. Discards as easily as tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX," at any drug or department store. Prove old ways an unnecessary risk. Be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Sunday night.
THE Stewarts, who are what I do not like about this apartment because they live across the hall, came over to see us this afternoon, because they cannot stay at home by themselves. They would kill each other, and if they did you could not blame them, and they have joined the bridge club that Joan has joined for us, and that means every second Tuesday evening we will have to be where they are, and that leaves me a possible 43 nights in each two weeks that will be worth living.

I stood them for a few minutes, and then I said, "Well, I guess I will take the baby out for a buggy ride," and Mr. Stewart said, "I will come along with you," and I said, "I guess I won't go, after all."

Mr. Stewart said bitterly, "It is a pity about you," and I said, "Ha, ha," sarcastically, because he has been married two years longer than I have and yet he does not know any better than to encourage his wife like that at a time like that, and when I think of him I realize it must be true that it takes all kinds of people to make a world, but the world would be better off if it did not, and why Mrs. Stewart married him is the hardest problem on earth until you start to figure out why he married her, and by that time you should be put in a strait-jacket or you will hurt yourself.

Well, the two women talked clothes for two hours flat, and you would think they were going to an inaugural ball instead of a cheap bridge game, and if I wrote down all they said my arm would be as sore as my head is, and besides my diary has not got that many pages in it because it is a diary and not a ledger.

The only cheerful thing Joan could say in two hours was that she could afford any new dress she wanted, but she is going to have the janitor's daughter stay with the baby a while tomorrow while she goes downtown with Mrs. Stewart, and they are just going to walk around, they said, but looking like the most expensive thing there is which is a woman who is looking like a sack.

Monday night.

WHEN I left for work this morning I said to Joan, "Don't tell me you are thinking of buying any more clothes when you go downtown with Mrs. Stewart today. I have not paid for all you bought less than two months ago when you went down home," and Joan said, "Oh, I am just going to help Mrs. Stewart look around," and I said, "I love the direct way you answer questions. Are you going to buy any more clothes or are you not?" and Joan said, "No, I'm not, if it will hurt you so much." The shock of having something new would be too much for me, anyway.

But women are smart, and when I came home tonight I knew something had happened because there was liver and bacon for dinner and today is not my birthday, and Joan will cook them only on my birthday, or when she wants something, because she says they are piebald, and I am not sure what that means but I have a suspicion it is a dirty trick.

So I said, "Why this big concession on your part? Are you going to run away with another man and are trying to soften the blow?" and Joan said, "Did you have a hard day, dearest?" and when she calls me dearest I can always figure it is costing me several dollars a reliable, and I am glad she does not call me mama's sweet little precious petticoats.

I said, "Well, dress yourself up in the bad news you bought and let me see how much you were stung," and she said, "Oh, I got the darlingest little hat today. It was a bargain I simply could not resist it," and she brought it out and put it on, and I said, "Last week when I offered to buy you a new hat if you would let me give the boys at my poker party a little drink, you said you did not need a new hat."

That was an error on my part. Joan said, "Speaking of that poker party reminds me. You lost $21.40, didn't you?" and I said, "Well, yes," and she said, "Then we certainly shall not argue over the way I squander your money," and how she is sure at the moment she has forgotten the $21.40, and she figures she just wasted giving the liver and bacon and calling me dearest when she had enough on her mind to make me buy her a new hat.

And when I win in a poker game she spends as much as I lost to, even things up, and it may be true that you cannot go broke taking a profit, but the hard part is keeping the profit after you take it, if ever.

How to Tell Fast Color in Fabrics.

By Hannah Wing.

MANUFACTURERS are now producing fabrics in colors that are absolutely fast. Unfortunately there are others who are still claiming fastness for colors that are most uncertain. If you find that goods of one kind labeled fast color is satisfactory, the safest thing is to stick to the same brand of goods as far as possible. Otherwise the only way to protect yourself is to take a sample of the fabric home and submit it to the conditions under which it is to be used. For example, cover a part of the sample with cardboard and expose the rest to direct sunlight for at least a week. Remove the cardboard occasionally and compare the exposed and unexposed portions. Wash a sample under ordinary conditions and note whether it fades. Test a piece in a solution of Javelle water if the fabric is likely to require bleaching.

The method which has been used in dyeing the fabric can often be determined by unraveling a few yarns. If it has been piece dyed with poor penetration, there will be undyed spots where the yarns crossed in weaving. A piece-dyed fabric is always the same color throughout, including the selvage. If it has been yarn dyed with poor penetration, untwisting the yarn will reveal undyed fibers in the center, although the entire surface of the yarn may be properly colored. Often the color appears to wear off of such a fabric, owing to the fact that the outer surface of the yarn is removed and the undyed portions made visible. If the yarn has spots of different colors, it has been printed.

The wise selection of cotton fabric must be based on general knowledge and appreciation of the fiber itself and of textile manufacturing processes, including the new ones constantly being introduced. These technical facts must be supplemented also by practical knowledge that comes from handling a great many fabrics and observing how they stand the wear and tear of everyday use.

It is a common fallacy that green, or some other color, is much less fast than blue. If these colors happen to belong to the same class, there is logic in such a comparison; but the consumer usually does not know to what class they belong and may be comparing a member of the poorest class with one of the best. All green dyes do not have the same quality of fastness, not only because they may be members of entirely different classes, but also because individual members may differ slightly among themselves. Fastness is a matter of chemical constitution and not of color.

RUNNING AWAY

By Angelo Patri

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. This school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

LITTLE children run away now and then—sometimes older ones, too, but that's different. The little ones find the door open or the gate unlatched, and away they go after the organ man or the merry-go-round or the black puppy. They turn corners, and are lost. After a while they are found again and smothered with tears and kisses and warnings and the closed door. "You must never, never run away," says mother and father and all the uncles and aunts. "Never."

Not a word of that does the runaway understand. He could repeat the cautions clearly, he could tell the story of his wanderings, but they are language memories, and uninterpreted experiences. He will run away again and again until the cause of his going is found and settled to the satisfaction of his mind. When that is settled he will stay at home, not before.

When a child runs away he is running to something, or he is running from something. Find out which and what. The little one of 2 or 3 years of age is becoming conscious of his personality and of the world about him. He senses dimly that he is closed in and that outside there is something he wants to explore. He is at the entering stage.

If he asks about something that is outside the house and grounds, and you can take him to see it, do so. When he sees the picture of a camel and asks about it, and you live near the zoo, take him to see the camel and let him look his fill at it. Take him with you daily on excursions to regions beyond the home and you will probably head off his desire to explore the world beyond the front door.

Sometimes there is something at home that he is running away from. You must find what that is. Maybe there is somebody there who speaks harshly to him, who finds fault with the slightest provocation, even slaps him for asking questions. If that is so, better have that person understand that he is not to do those things. He is making the child resentful and, although he is too little to put his feelings into words, he has put it into action and has run away.

A contented, happy child will sometimes go off on a tour of exploration. Explain the danger to him and tell him he is to stay home until you can go out with him and that you will go whenever he asks you to if he will tell you a day of so ahead of time. That sort of child will not make it a habit. The discontented, unhappy child will.

If you can find no cause for the running away—if you have cheerfully taken him to where he wished to go, if his home life is free from worry and pain, and he still runs away, better have the child specialist look him over. There is always a reason. The reason must be found before the condition can be changed.

How It's Done

The rule for keeping that school-girl complexion, that thousands know

By NORMA SHEARER

A SIMPLE nightly habit, famous beauty experts say, is today responsible for better skin conditions, greater charm and beauty, than any costly treatment known.

Simple cleanliness—soap and water—they aver, is the first rule in getting that schoolgirl complexion. Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Use this way regularly, and particularly before bed. Use powder, rouge, make-up all you wish. But never leave them on the skin over night. Note, then, how much better your skin is even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE. Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

"Well, the years go snaking up behind you on the feet of the children. We'll sail in a week for Colon. We will go down through the Crooked and Windward passages, and may be take the voyage by looking into Port au Prince. I work entirely under a white flag."

Bunch thought of what Carillon had hinted as the motive of her call on him, and of the demand on him that she had intimated might be forthcoming. He felt that he ought to tell her brother, but did not.

Boyd observed: "There are some long runs ahead for you, if you stick it out."

"O, I'll stick. We can carry water and stores for six weeks at a pinch, and my tanks hold a fuel waiting on the veranda of the hotel for Howland and his daughter, whom he had asked for luncheon there. When presently they appeared, Bengal looked with a new interest at Gertrude, who impressed him as having grown up overnight. He had not previously given the girl much thought, seeing in her scarcely more than a healthy child with a face that was pretty in features and pleasing of expression, rather of Devon or perhaps Danish type, blue-eyes widely spaced, bobbed chestnut hair that was wavy and thick, short straight nose jutting up a little and a wide red lip mouth. Bodily proportions were so far those of a robust athletic boy, but a physical curtist might have perceived that subtle changes were already in progress, these lines of adolescence in process of changing their contours.

Tomatoes, Scalloped.

Drain juice from a can of tomatoes. Butter a baking dish and cover the bottom with a layer of cracker or bread crumbs. Then put in a layer of tomatoes and some very thin slices of green peppers. Season with salt, pepper, bits of butter and a little onion juice. Repeat alternate layers until dish is full having crumbs on top. Then pour enough tomato juice with a little sugar in it, so as almost cover the crumbs. Put cover on dish and bake in a hot oven about 40 minutes. When almost done remove cover and brown.

A CONSUMING, passionate spirit in a frail little body! Such was Clara Morris. Her life was in itself a drama. She was born in Toronto, Canada. Her name was Morrison, which she changed to Morris for theatrical purposes. When she was only 17 she joined a stock company in Cleveland. Although she was studious, painstaking and reliable, no one recognized any great possibilities in the "pale little girl." She was given maid-servant parts and others of similar character.

Augustine Daly, who was always the lookout for fresh talent, gave the young women for his Fifth Avenue company. He didn't require much ability of them, as long as they were conscientious. So he wrote John Ellis of the Cleveland company. Clara Morris was a very capable girl and she was sent to Daly.

The Fifth Avenue Company was

The house was sold out, every seat being occupied. Daly stepped before the curtain and announced in rather doubtful terms that Miss Morris would be the star for Miss Ethel. When the curtain fell on the old Daly favorites were greeted enthusiastically. "The little pale girl," however, remained in the background during most of the first act, but at the climax she burst forth with a terrific outburst of passion. For the remainder of the play all were under the spell of Miss Morris. Half the audience wept with her.

For years she was the Camille of the American stage. No one could equal her unrestrained emotion and realistic characterization. Sarah Bernhardt once has remarked that she has much more sympathy for Camille after having seen Miss Morris' representation. This from the woman who was considered the greatest Camille of all! The other triumph of Miss Morris still lives in the public mind.

Her career was marred by a great deal of physical suffering. After her retirement from the stage she wrote articles for magazines and newspapers. She also wrote "The Life of Alphonse Deshayes" and "The Life of Alphonse Deshayes" and "The Life of Alphonse Deshayes".

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

T. F. C.—Common law marriages have been legal in Missouri since the summer of 1921. If the government would treat a common law marriage as a legal one, if there was a real man and a real woman, it would be limited success marriages.

C. P. P.—In Mississippi in the past few years, the state has advertised for sale annually on the streets of the state the delinquent boys for the preceding year. In the advertisement, it says that the child is not purchased by a peddler it goes to the state and is sold to the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Can I get liberty bonds (2) from the Secretary of State, or the Secretary of the State, or the War Department, or the War Relocation regarding the company, or your brother was interested?

INTERESTED READER.—A man who has been married a second wife and leave all his property to his first wife's child, is he guilty of a crime?

Her husband and children would be interested in this. My wife suggests that you consult a lawyer.

F. H. H.—The owner of the adjoining property would have to cut your roof back to the line. You just close to the property and the adjoining property. If you have already built up to the line, you would have to remove the adjoining property could do likewise.

INTERESTED.—Any applicant for a Certificate as Certified Public Accountant must be over 25 years of age, must be a native born, a graduate of a high school with a four years course, or have an equivalent, and must pass an examination to be set by the board of accountancy. It takes three years' practical accounting experience. Examinations are held in the fall of each year in accounting, auditing, and commercial law. U. S. ADMIRAL SENDS ALARMING REPORT

Declares That "Trouble
May Be Expected at Any Minute" at Wuhu on Upper Yangtze.

By the Associated Press.
PEKIN, March 29.—Alarmed by the events at Nanking, all the American members of the staff of the Peking Union Medical College have decided to depart for home immediately.
Upper Yangtze River ports report that anti-foreign agitation is increasing, especially in the Ichang and Chungsha areas.
Following a slight altercation between two British sailors and a Chinese farmer at Changsha, the local Nationalist authorities informed the British Consul that extrajurisdictional privileges had been withdrawn and demanded the surrender of the sailors for "rigorous punishment." They also said the British consulate would be treated as a property liable to search.
British Consul then ordered evacuation of all British.
Withdrawal of American missionaries in Anhwei and Southern Szechwan provinces is proceeding due to prospects that this area will be a North-South battle field.
Report to Washington Recommends Strong Action.
WASHINGTON, March 29.—Recommendations for strong action to prevent recurrence of the Nanking outrages at other points in Nationalist-controlled territory were contained in a message forwarded to the State Department today by Minister MacMurray at Peking.
While the message which reached Washington from Nanking did not bear the signature of the sender received here, department officials believed it probably was sent by Consul J. K. Davis, who still aboard a warship at Nanking.
The Minister's cablegram, dated March 27, was accompanied by a report from Rear Admiral Hough, commanding the Yangtze River patrol, which said the situation at Nanking was growing more critical. "He reports that trouble is being started up and may be expected at any moment," the department's announcement said.
Minister MacMurray said that a message to him from Nanking stated that outrages there were more riotous than was at first realized.
Examination of depositions and official statements by Americans had produced evidence of two cases of attempted attacks on American women, and there were other cases only slightly less serious in character," it was added.
The message states that the campaign of terrorism and insult to foreigners is not only officially maintained and directed, but also prearranged. The State Department announcement said.
"The incident at Nanking could hardly have been more outrageous. The worst incidents would have been greatly multiplied but for the timely bombardment."
"Attention is made in this message of the immediate withdrawal of all Americans in Nationalist territory and the undertaking of some action sufficiently strong to deter perpetration of similar incidents elsewhere."
From Hankow, Consul General Harkness cabled in a delayed message that Eugene Chen, Cantonese Minister, had asked him to convey to Washington sincere regret at the loss of an American at Nanking. "Regardless of whether or not these acts were committed by Northern or National troops,"
When he stated that he will continue on Page 2, Column 2.
